Conflict Report: Ottoboni Owns 26 'Parcels' in Colma

By FRANK LaPIERRE

According to documents filed last week with County Clerk Marvin Church in compliance with the new "conflict of interest" law, Colma Councilman Raymond Ottoboni owns 26 parcels of property in that city.

All are valued at over $10,000, according to Ottoboni's statement.

Ottoboni's fellow councilman, Earl Taylor listed stock holdings in Cypress Abbey Company of less than $10,000, along with ownership of property at 1903-1905 Hillside Blvd., Colma.

Taylor, owner of a pet cemetery at 1905 Hillside, reported his income results from employment as assistant manager of Cypress Lawn Cemetery and his work as an "occasional bookkeeper" for Cypress Abbey Company.

Both Taylor's pet cemetery and certain portions of Cypress Abbey's property holdings border on Hillside Boulevard.

The county has, in recent years, considered widening of Hillside which could involve privately owned lands bordering the Daly City-South San Francisco thoroughfare.

In Daly City, attorney and city councilman Paul Huph, subject of recent disclosures that he, his wife, law partner Frank Blum Jr., and Blum's wife, own property on Mission Street in the heart of Daly City's redevelopment project area, listed holdings "under $10,000" in stocks of Vista Grande Cablevision Company.

Hupf said the stocks are in his wife's name.

These stocks were received in lieu of services rendered to the cable television company some years ago, Hupf explained at the time he went on the council.

After his election, Hupf transferred the stocks to his wife, Virginia.

They have since decreased considerably in value, according to Hupf.

Asked why he did not include his Mission Street holdings (valued at some $65,000) on the declaration, Hupf said the disclousre period covers March 1973 through March 1974 only.

He did not legally own the property until April 26, 1974, Hupf said.

Mayor McRobert Stewart listed only his employment with White Lumber Company as a possible conflict.

It was understood Stewart was not required to file this information, but did so "to make it known."

Anthony Giammona, a Daly City Councilman for the past eight years, reported his only holdings were 100 shares of stock in the Mervyn Department store chain.

Giammona told the Post he bought the shares through a broker about three years ago at $31 per share. They are now estimated to be worth about $16, he said.

There is a Mervyn's Department store at Serramonte Shopping Center, built less than a year ago.

Records at City Hall indicate that a master plan for the entire shopping center complex was approved by the city council in June 1965.

The property was zoned C-2 on May 25, 1964 and was annexed to Daly City on Oct. 28, 1963 (Ord. 588 and 603).

Giammona was not involved in any of these actions inasmuch as he was not appointed to the council until Dec. 27, 1966.

A C-2 zone permits any type of commercial or industrial structures, it was explained.

Once the master plan for the shopping center was approved by the Planning Commission and city council, no other matter of significance came before the council.

This was true in the case of Mervyn's, a city hall spokesman said.

ORGANIZATION BREAKDOWN

Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce President Al Vial (right) and chamber general manager Pete Markovich go over new organizational charts at the agency's new offices at 6767 Mission St., Daly City.

DC Chamber's New Look

The Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce has a new look and a new outlook on its future.

There is new paint, new carpets more staff and an entirely different atmosphere at the chamber's new offices at 6767 Mission St.

"It took us 26 years to get to this point," Chamber President Al Vial said.

Pete Markovich, full-time general manager of the "new" chamber, agrees.

Markovich has been with the chamber for most of its existence — 24 years.

However, heretofore, Markovich received a mere pittance to perform his chamber duties on a part-time basis.

From a salary in recent years of some $7,500, he had to pay for his secretary, office space, car costs and the myriad of other duties performed by the business organization.

As the city rapidly grew in recent years, the chamber simply tottled along.

The membership, small by comparison to the size of the city, had the "get up and go," but, as Vial explained, "no one seemed to know where to go.

Only in the past three years has the chamber seriously considered expanding its operation.

Talks started last year under president Frank Spadarella to go with a full-time staff.

The city of Daly City was approached and, following lengthy talks on how the chamber would benefit, it was agreed to provide some $21,000.

It was believed by city hall that if the chamber clicked with a new full-time staff, including an administrative assistant to Markovich and a full-time secretary, perhaps new businesses could be lured to the city. More business meant more taxes from revenues, the city hall officials pointed out.

This year, the chamber has qualified for some funds under the federal government's Title TW II program to pay for added staff.

The $21,000 comes from the city's hotel-motel taxes, part of which is annually turned over to the county for promotional projects.

Asked if the fact that at least one Daly City councilman is a director on the Board of Directors, thus being on the "giving end" of the $21,000 and also at the "receiving end" responsible for administration of the funds, created a conflict of interest, Vial said it was a matter the chamber was now concerned with.

Asked if the city tried to manipulate the chamber because of its annual investments through funding, Vial said "absolutely not."

"The city has gone out

Cab Rate Increase Asked

Yellow Cab Company is asking for a rate increase to operate its fleet of 20 vehicles in Daly City — the second such rate increase request in 18 months.

Charles L. O'Connor, senior vice president of Yellow Cab, asked the Daly City City Council to authorize the cab company to raise its fare to 80 cents for the first one-eighth mile; 20 cents for each additional one-fourth mile or fraction thereof; and 20 cents for each one and one-half minute wait or traffic delay.

For out of town trips exceeding 15 miles beyond city limits, the fare will be 150 per cent of the metered time.

The latter apparently is needed to offset the "return time" of a cab to its starting point.

O'Connor said similar or higher rates have been in effect "for some time in other California communities, including the East Bay and Peninsula cities."

Rising costs of labor and operation are blamed for the request, the cab company official explained.

The company, after several months of talks on the issue, recently was granted a fare hike in San Francisco.

"Since our operating costs in Daly City are practically identical to our costs in San Francisco, we are requesting the same rate," O'Connor said.

City Manager David Rowe informed the council his office is asking for information regarding the company's operation, list of vehicles, rate comparisons with other cities and similar data.

The company now pays Daly City $250 annually for a permit, plus $20 per cab permit per year.

A public hearing on the matter has been set for Tuesday Oct. 15 at city hall.

CONTESTANTS

Broadmoor Queen Crowned

Michele Scott became Broadmoor's queen Friday night.

The 14-year-old miss was judged best of three contestants in unincorporated Colma contest.

Miss Scott, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Scott, will reign over the 5,000-person community's Oct. 19 parade and carnival, as well as other events during the coming year.

Karen Thomas, first runnerup, and Cheryl Gerhardt, second runnerup, will form Miss Scott's court.

'Racial Abuses' At DC Health Clinic Charged

A group calling itself the "Ad Hoc Committee of United Minorities" has demanded the city of Daly City launch an immediate investigation into the operation of the Guadalupe Health Clinic — a service provided to the area's low income families.

Daly City has cooperated with the center since its founding several years ago, leasing it the old City Hall at 75 Wellington Ave., and providing it with certain funding through the Revenue Sharing plan.

There are other federal and state agencies that also have sponsored studies and related programs for the recognized health center.

Now, however, charges have been made that "racial and fiscal abuses" of the center are being made.

Maury Tolson, a member of the Ad Hoc Committee, told the City Council at a public study session Monday he is against one woman member of the center's 17 member Board of Directors who resides outside San Mateo County, in Alameda.

Tolson later identified the director as Pat Wright.

Tolson said he is convinced the director has considerable powers of persuasion over other members of the board and bears partial responsibility for some of the alleged wrongdoings at the center.

City Manager David Rowe said he would instruct the city auditor to go over the center's books concerning disposition of city funded items.

He said the federal and state governments are responsible for auditing their own programs at the center.

Rowe, noting that Daly City participates in three "outside" programs — the Chamber of Commerce, Information Center and Health center — said, "In all cases we've tried to stay out of directing policies."

The city, however, does demand an accounting of where the taxpayers' money goes, he said. Rowe indicated the time to review the matter of future Guadalupe funding will come during hearings on the distribution of revenue sharing monies.

Guadalupe and Daly City entered into a lease of the former City Hall as a clinic for elderly and low income patients on Sept. 14, 1972.

The lease agreement is a standard form, according to Rowe, with the exception of, "The premises are to be used solely for the operation of a Community Health Center and for no other purpose without written consent of city."

Mayor McRobert Stewart was asked by The Post if he had any knowledge of specific charges against the clinic?

He replied, "Not yet."

Because the center receives federal revenue sharing funds, it upon demand either by the city, Federal government or other governmental agencies must provide all information concerning expenditures, Rowe pointed out.

Rowe recommended that the city auditor be instructed to confer with an independent clinic auditor that has been hired to review the clinic's accounts to such extent as he thinks necessary to determine if all applicable laws and regulations are being met.

He also cautioned that the city not investigate or evaluate the employment practices or any other area of policy determination of the health center.

Broadmoor Deputy

Helicopter Shooting Trial Opens in Redwood City

Nearly two years ago, Sheriff's deputies Jack R. Gerhardt of Broadmoor and David McIntyre responded in the patrol's helicopter to a remote area over Portola Valley after receiving complaints of persons shooting guns in the area.

During their first flight over the area they didn't observe anyone. The second time, a shot pierced the helicopter, wounding Gerhardt, a father of four.

Last week, his civil trial against three defendants, seeking $500,000, started before San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn and a jury in Redwood City.

The trial is expected to last until Oct. 16.

The defendants include Donald W. "Dana" Olsen, who allegedly fired the shot; William Rassieur III, who allegedly purchased the ammunition for Olson, then 17 years old; and Eddie's Sports Shop in Mountain View, accused of selling ammunition to an 18-year-old knowing the 17-year-old Olson would use it.

According to informed sources, the naming of the Sports Shop as a "defendant" in the case is among the first times in California that a store is being challenged for the sale of its ammunition.

Joseph W. Cotchett of San Mateo, representing Gerhardt, maintains that Olson negligently fired the shot knowing the helicopter was above.

But Bruce Wagner of Redwood City, representing Olson, rebuts that the youth was shooting at a bird and did not know a helicopter was above. Olson was with four other teenage boys.

Olson was held for criminal charges, and had his case handled by juvenile officials because he was then a minor.

One of Cotchett's chief contentions, in seeking the $500,000 judgment, is that Gerhardt cannot resume his duties as a deputy sheriff.

The bullet, it was said, went through his scrotum, hit his left thigh and shattered his left wrist, affecting his mobility.

In testimony Thursday, Paul M. Dougherty, chief of the county's crime lab, identified Olson's rifle as a 7.7-millimeter Japanese Army Rifle, used during World War II.

"The weapon has good knock-down power," Dougherty told Cotchett. "It's used for deer, elk and other big

Body Snatch Suspect Committed to Hospital

Ronald Jones, the 23-year-old transient accused of stealing a small boy's body from a Colma cemetery crypt in August, has been deemed incompetent to stand trial.

San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan suspended criminal proceedings last week, and ordered Jones sent to Atascadero State Hospital for mental treatment. When Jones is released from the hospital, criminal proceedings will be reinstated.

Two psychiatrists told Judge Ragan that Jones, also known as Marseille Vanderberg, was suffering from delusions and could not give any rational reason for his actions.

Jones was arrested at the Holy Cross Cemetery after he returned to the crypt from which he allegedly removed the body of a six-year-old boy who had died of heart disease in 1971. The mummified remains of the body were discovered off Devil's Slide three days before Jones' arrest.

Officials said that Jones has tried to commit suicide since his arrest.

Four Men Rob Daly City Youth

Four men armed with shotguns broke into a Daly City home Monday noon and allegedly robbed a 17-year-old youth of some $50 in cash, a wristwatch and several guns.

Police would not identify the young victim until completion of their investigation.

The break-in took place at 11:45 a.m. at 263 Alexander St.

As the youth scuffled with his assailants, his older brother, 21, came into the room from a downstairs apartment, police said.

After ransacking the home, the men grabbed two shotguns, two rifles and a pistol and fled in a late model Thunderbird.

Witnesses took that fleeing car's license number. A few hours later, San Francisco police arrested David Acosta Labogin, 18, of 167 Hahn St., and Anthony Lynn Tucker, 18, of 68 Esquina St., both of San Francisco.

Tucker and Labogin were charged with armed robbery.

A watch reportedly stolen in the robbery was recovered, police said.

Two other men are at large.

3 Sustain Burns In Pacifica Fire

A man, his wife and their four-year-old son were burned early Sunday morning in Pacifica when they ran through flames to escape their burning home.

Treated and released from Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City were Drew Tracy, his wife, Margaret, and their son, all of 436 Glascow Drive.

Fire officials report Tracy sustained first and second degree burns on his upper legs, feet and back; Mrs. Tracy received first and second degree burns on her hands and, feet and face; and their son had second degree burns on his left foot.

According to fire officials, the four-year-old arose early Sunday before his parents and began playing with matches. One match ignited a corner of the living room sofa.

The boy ran upstairs to awaken his parents, who both raced downstairs to investigate. They found the living room ablaze.

Tracy roused his two-year-old daughter, and helped her, his wife and son, all dressed in nightclothes, through the flames and outside.

They went to a neighbor's house and called firemen.

The daughter was not injured in the fire.

Officials estimate damage at $4,000 to the building and $2,000 to contents.

100-Year Flood Detailed

Thousands of Peninsula residents could be potential victims in an "100-year flood" — one so great that it probably occurs on the average of only once in a century.

That is the conclusion of a study by three hydrologists for the U.S. Geological Survey, Menlo Park.

Jefferson High School District

Affirmative Action Program Adopted

The Jefferson Union High School Board adopted an Affirmative Action Program with the goal of achieving a reasonable balance of personnel by Sept. 1976.

According to the approved program, the personnel balance is to "more closely approximate the racial, ethnic and sexual makeup of the district in all areas of district employment and at all levels of responsibility where under utilization is indicated."

The 1976 target date was significant in that the district's Human Relations Committee had suggested Sept. 1978 as the deadline for the balance.

The board's action was protested by Certificated Employees Council Chairman Mary Ann Holden, who complained that her organization wasn't given its legal right to vote on the program.

Mrs. Holden explained that the Winton Act allows the CEC the opportunity to approve matters affecting salaries, but that its members didn't receive the proposal until Sept. 30.

Mrs. Holden, who is involved in two national and three statewide affirmative action programs, asked the board to table the matter so the CEC could consider it. "A vote tonight would violate the spirit of the Winton Act," she said.

Mrs. Holden said she would take the action up at tonight's CEC meeting. Although refusing to predict the members' reaction, she said the wording of the adopted policy was extensively different from the CEC proposals. "I'm guessing that they might have a quarrel with it," Mrs. Holden said.

But District Supt. Edward Morgan took exception with that statement, saying that nothing was changed. And Trustee Albert Teglia argued that the program deals with salaries only so far as providing equal pay for equal work.

The board voted 4-1 on the program, with Jane Powell dissenting. Although emphasizing that she supported equal opportunity, Mrs. Powell said she was opposed to various parts of the program.

One of her objections was that a nine-member advisory committee which would be formed would end up as a grievance or review board, thereby negating some responsibilities of the trustees.

But Board President John Sloane hailed the program as a "workable one" and said it would "do a great deal for the district." And Morgan called it "an excellent policy."

The Assistant Superintendent of Personnel, Harold Tonini, will head the program.

Sanitation District Expansion Plans OK'd

On Sept. 10 the North San Mateo County Sanitation District received its Letter of Concept Approval for the enlargement and expansion of its wastewater treatment facility located in the Westlake area of Daly City.

The letter from the Office of the State Water Resources Control Board officially informed the district that the concept of the project has been approved for 87½ per cent federal and state grant funding.

The enlargement project, which is estimated to cost approximately $7,000,000, will receive the grant funding in the amount of approximately $6,125,000.

Following the preparation of plans and specifications by the district's engineers and the approval of such plans by the funding agencies, the district expects to commence construction on this project in September of 1975.

The project, which will increase the capacity of the plant as well as providing secondary biological treatment of the wastewater, will take approximately 18 to 24 months to complete. It is expected that the facility will be in full operation by the summer of 1977.

The Board of Directors of the Sanitation District, consisting of McRobert Stewart, chairman, and Messrs. James Fitzgerald and Anthony Giammona, directors, has instructed the district staff and engineers to proceed with extreme expediency in the preparation of the plans to be submitted to the State for approval prior to construction.

Trustees OK Salary Hike for Classified

The Jefferson Union High School Board voted a 7.85 per cent slary increase for classified employes Oct. 1.

The agreement reached by the district and the local union of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees also included a reduction in the standard work day for all full time classified employees to seven and a half hours, and a standard week of 37½ hours

Board approval of the pay hike came on a 4-1 vote and the accpetance of the worrk day by a 3-2 margin.

Trustee Ruth Boudinot voted against both, citing the district's tight financial situation, and saying that the salary increase would use money that could go to various programs. Mrs. Boudinot, who also voted against the certificated raise granted by the board, called her decision a "protest vote."

And Trustee Albert Teglia voted against the work hours, saying that the district is already understaffed and that it can't afford the extra half hour a day for each employe.

In another matter, Supt. Edward Morgan said a proposal for a student advisory committee that would give input to the board would be on the agenda the first meeting of November. Morgan said the schools now are deciding how to best slect representatives from the student bodies. The exact function the students will perform is still to be worked out.

Also, the board adopted a policy regarding the payment of expense reimbursement to district appointees. The policy states that anyone appointed to a district school committee who attends workshops or other activities in the service of the district will be reimbursed for meals, mileage, registration and other expenses.

North American game. It would disintegrate a bird, blow it apart, because it's so powerful. It isn't suitable at all for shooting birds."

Under cross-examination by Wagner, Dougherty said he did not test the weapon for accuracy or velocity, and confirmed that the rifle is 30 to 35 years old.

Three of the youths who accompanied Olson for target shooting that day testified Thursday that they eventually saw a helicopter, but did not hear it.

Each of them denied discussions that one of them possibly hit the helicopter.

Considerable testimony also centered on a trip Fred Branagan of Los Altos said he, Olson and Rassieur took to Eddie's Sports shop two or three days before the incident.

Branagan told of how he knew that he and Olson could not purchase ammunition because they were 17, and that Rassieur was along because he was 18. But Branagan said he "wasn't sure" if Rassieur purchased ammunition for Olson that day. He said he had "assumed" the older boy bought ammunition.

When the sign permit matter came before the council it was not specified what the sign was for, Giammona said. For this reason he did not abstain from casting an "aye" vote for it.

During the Knowles Corrider improvement hearings in recent years, Giammona, a former property owner in the general area, continually abstained from taking part in any discussions or decision-making on the matter.

This has also been true of Hupf on matters affecting Vista Grande Cable, the current and controversial sign ordinance (Hupf is a representative of Foster & Kleiser Sign Co.) and, more recently, redevelopment agency matters.

Flood

The hydrologists have mapped flood-prone areas in nine Bay Area counties. Most of the potential flood areas are on watersheds of streams draining into the Bay and in lowlands of the Bay and ocean shore.

Should the 100-year-flood strike, the hydrologists predict huge sections along the Peninsula would be inundated, particularly east of the Bayshore Freeway.

The north halves of the two longest runways at San Francisco International Airport would be under water.

Bayshore Freeway would be closed from South San Francisco to Belmont, and from Dumbarton Bridge to Stevens Creek. In the South Bay, water would cover much of East Palo Alto, Palo Alto, Moffett Field, Alviso, Milpitas, Agnew and large sections of San Jose.

In the East Bay, flooding would occur over a slender zone east of the freeway in Berkeley, the old Oakland Airport would be inundated, and a large area east of the Oakland Coliseum flooded.

San Francisco would be dry if the 100-year flood occurred, but a large area of land around the north end of San Pablo Bay would be flooded.

Grass Fire On Coastside

A six-acre grassfire began a busy late afternoon Sunday for Half Moon Bay firemen, who responded with 19 men and three engines to the blaze on the hill behind Half Moon Bay Village.

The fire was in tall grass and brush and was believed to have been started by juveniles, firemen reported. The call came in at 3:32 p.m.

It no sooner had been controlled when another call came in for a rescue of two men trapped on a rock at Rope Beach, in the Purissima area south of Half Moon Bay.

of its way to give us a free hand. They have a 'hands off' policy as far as this chamber is concerned," he said.

Another area the chamber is now looking into is the hiring of a consultant for three months "to show us the way."

The consultant will map plans and goals and tell the chamber how to reach these goals, Vial said.

"We feel that in a couple of years we won't need the city's (financial) help — we'll be on our own feet," Vial said.

Grand opening celebration for the new office will be held tomorrow from 3-6 p.m.

SSF Man Wins Irish Sweepstake

Manuel Gil of South San Francisco has found a hedge against inflation.

He won $50,000 in the Irish Sweepstakes over the weekend.

"I'm not sure what I'll do with the money," he said this morning, "but I know that it will allow me to catch up a little bit."

Gil, 45, a teamster, works for Willig Freight Lines in San Francisco.

Gil got the news that his horse, Kew Gardens, had finished second in Dublin when a local newspaper telephoned him.

"I was still in bed when they called," Gil said. "I was on vacation last week when all this happened." He took today off.

Gil and his wife have five children, three of whom live at home. Two of the children are still in school.

Understandably, Gil is worried about the coming bad news from his friendly Internal Revnue Service branch.

"I don't know what the tax bite will be but there probably won't be that much money left after they get through with it," Gil said.

He planned to talk to his own tax man today.

'Courtesy Privileges' in Millbrae

Local Officials' Real Estate Holdings Revealed

By DUANE SANDUL

George E. Edsell, a member of the Pacifica Planning Commission, owns 15 pieces of property in Pacifica, according to "conflict of interest" documents filed this week with County Clerk Marvin Church.

He rates second to County Supervisor William H. Royer as the holder of the most property under the provisions of the new conflict of interest law. Officials must list holdings only within their jurisdictions. Ownership does not mean conflicts exist, unless a public official's property could benefit from his action.

Other findings:

- Two Millbrae councilmen receive "courtesy" privileges to a golf course in that city.
- Three South San Francisco officials own real property on Baden Avenue.
- Former Colma Mayor Raymond Ottoboni owned 15 parcels on E Street, seven on F Street, three on D Street and one on A Street, all valued above $10,000.

Edsell, a Realtor and appraiser, owns real property exceeding $10,000 each on 15 different streets. He didn't list them as sources of income.

Pacifica councilwoman Grace McCarthy listed investments in eight parcels on "Block 32" in Pacifica, plus ownership of a rental home at 9 Eastland Ave.

The Millbrae councilman who said they received as "gifts" the golfing privileges at the Green Hills Golf and Country Club are Bernard E. Esser Jr. and Arthur Lepore. Lepore also said he receives a "courtesy pass" from United Artists Theatre Curcuit Inc., for a theatre in Millbrae.

In South San Francisco, councilman Frank Mammini lists investments in property exceeding $10,000 at 390 Alida Way and 477 Baden Ave. Mayor Terry Mirri of SSF also lists property at 648 Baden Ave. and 645 and 649 Third Lane. He said he leases all three properties.

Robert C. Teglia, a planning commissioner in South San Francisco, holds investments in property at 567 and 569 Baden Ave., which he rents, plus a one-third interest of 553 Baden, and a joint tenancy of 874 Baden.

Nello C. Lazzari, another South City planning commissioner, lists investments in property at 350 Commercial Avenue and 354 Commercial (a grocery store), plus offices at 218 and 220 Broadway in Millbrae.

James W. McClenshan, an Atherton planning commissioner, listed investments of property at 2233, 2251, 2301, 2205, 2211 and 2215 Palm Ave., San Mateo. His mechanical contracting business is at 2301 Palm.

John A. Bernard, a San Bruno city councilman, listed property investments at 482 W. San Bruno Ave., and 814 and 818 Green Ave., all in San Bruno. Neil J. Christal, another San Bruno councilman, owns investments of property at 520 San Antonio Ave., 673 San Mateo Ave. and 420 San Mateo Ave., also all in San Bruno. George E. Corey, past mayor of San Bruno, shares half-interest in property at 7007 El Camino Real, Millbrae.

Thor Madsen, mayor of San Carlos, owns investments in seven pieces of real property, including 1645 El Camino Real, which he says he leases to Southern Pacific Railroad. He also owns a lot on Bayview Drive, and said he continues to derive income from a plumbing business, which he sold in 1969.

San Mateo Mayor John Condon listed investments exceeding $10,000 in properties located at 119 W. 41st Ave., 413 Williams Place, 324 W. 3rd Ave., and 3325 Shasta Drive, all single family homes which he stated he rents. The mayor also listed investments of deed of trust interest in property at 717 Laurelwood Drive, 244 Portola Drive, and 110 W. 39th Ave.

Albert A. Hoover, a Menlo Park planner, has certificates of limited partnership in property at 2740-44 Sand Hill Road, while Everett Milton King, a Foster City planner, owns and rents houses at 1170 Polynesia Drive and 839 Constitution Drive, both in Foster City.

Lloyd T. Cardoni, a Half Moon Bay councilman, has real investments at 215 San Mateo Road, 401 Main Street and 332 Grove St., all Half Moon Bay.

Several of the above, plus other elected and appointed officials, listed ownershp of stock and bonds.

Tot Lot Project To Begin

Placard-carrying parents and children received assurances Wednesday night from parks officials in Daly City that the Camelot Tot Lot project could be started within two weeks.

Parks and Recreation Director Charles Vincent said the project could be completed within four months, "barring strikes and weather."

The Parks and Recreation Commission approved a suggestion by member Jane Powell for two resident group leaders, Gerry White and John Harrington, both of Camelot Court, to serve on an advisory committee to work with the parks staff.

The Camelot Court area residents told the commission they wanted speedy action on the $21,000 project, to beat the winter rains.

One of the signs carried by the residents stated, "Keep the mud off our doorsteps."

The community members approved the park concept, presented by Don Ciucci, staff planner for the Daly City Redevelopment Agency, who designed the tot lot "as a labor of love" — without compensation.

The tot lot will include two basketball half courts, a spring platform, a "flying saucer," "moon whirl," and other play equipment for youngsters, Ciucci said.

Vincent said he believed grading on the Camelot project could begin within two weeks.

White said he hoped some type of ground cover could be planted before the rains came. Vincent said the department is considering buying sod, instead of growing its own turfing.

Grand Opening Of N. County Demo Office

Saturday, Sept. 28, a crowd of well-wishers drank champagne punch to celebrate the Grand Opening of the North County Democratic Headquarters at 6331 Mission St., Daly City.

The campaign office has literature on display about all 11 local and state-wide Democratic candidates, and will be open from noon to 7 p.m. daily. The public is invited to come in, have a free cup of coffee and look over the literature.

Planned activities include a candidates night at 8 p.m. at the headquarters, Oct. 24. The office is sponsored by the Daly City-Colma Democratic Club, the Pacifica Democratic Club, and the North County Democratic Club. The Daly City Club plans literature distribution to registered Democrats in Daly City and Colma.

Additional volunteers are needed to staff the headquarters and also to do door-to-door work. Phone 755-0956 to volunteer.

The office will be open through Election Day, Nov. 5.

Diamond Jim Roast

No Sign of Bone—Lots of Fine Flavor!
Only a Prime Rib Could Be Better"

Use a 6 to 7-lb. Diamond Jim roast. Allow roast to reach room temperature before placing into oven (from 3 to 4 hours).
Place roast into shallow roasting pan, do not cover. Set oven at 450 degrees for the first 30 mins. Then drop temperature to 350 degrees for remainder of time. Cooking time in total 18 to 22 mins. per pound depending on degree of doneness desired. Let roast set in serving platter 5 to 7 mins. before slicing. Salt and pepper to taste! If desired — rosemary, thyme, garlic powder or Italian seasoning may be added!
You may also place this roast on a spit over charcoal if desired — allow ½ lb. meat per serving!

Serve with a beautiful Zinfandel

JESD Trustees Create A New Staff Position

The Jefferson Elementary School Board gave the administration the green light Oct. 2 to advertise for a $21,500 a year program director to research and evaluate various district activities.

Supt. Herbert Hemington, who pushed the proposal, told the board that "evaluation is an area that has been sadly neglected" and that the evaluation needs of the district could be best served by one person.

The position, officially called the Program Director for Research and Evaluation, would assist the superintendent and administrators in the organization of the administration of the district's research evaluation activities with particular emphasis on the improvement of instruction.

A major brunt of the director's work would be with the special programs such as those under the Emergency School Aid Act, Title I and Early Childhood Education.

Hemington explained that in the past, the district has had to hire people from the outside to come in and evaluate the various programs.

And ESAA Director Robert Hughley added that it is better if one person is in charge of these duties, since much time has to be spent on backgrounding any outside evaluator.

Trustee Al Schwarzbach, who joined Board President Beverly Forrester in voting against the proposal, said he was unhappy with the "superficial presentation of the administration" in explaining the need for the position.

Schwarzbach indicated he wasn't opposed to the idea completely, but that more study was needed on the necessity of such a director. He said the ability of the current staff to do the job for the district should be maximized first, and then it could be decided whether the extra personnel was needed.

The trustee complained that it was unfair of the administration to ask the board to vote on the matter without this complete study.

Mrs. Forrester objected when Hemington revealed that the position could be dropped after a year if there wasn't sufficient money to fund it.

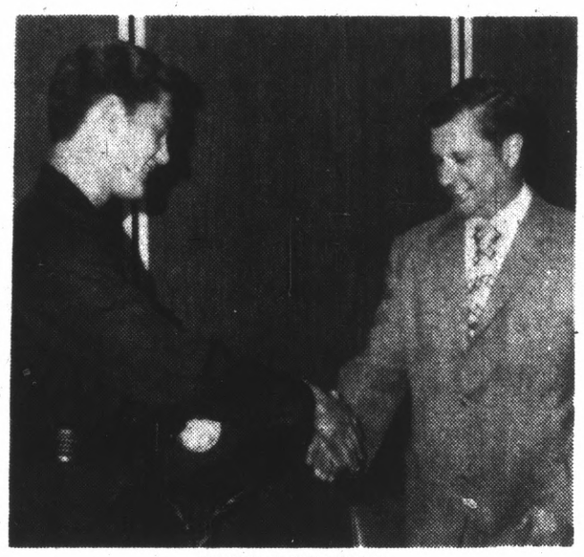
The first year funding for the post would come from monies already targeted for evaluation, including $11,468 from ESAA, $2,000 from the district budget, and $866 from the Early Childhood Education budget.

But Hemington admitted that he wasn't sure where the money would come from if the position were retained another year.

Minimum qualifications for the job are a teaching credential, a masters degree and at least five years experience in education.

Among other desired abilities are skill in problem solving and using system analysis to communicate research patterns, experience with research and development projects and and experimental programs.

Specific responsibilities include developing evaluation procedures for eight major areas of study, coordinating the implementation of the evaluation of the reading, math and language program, coordinating the implementation of evaluation of current pilot programs, and preparing periodic reports required of specially funded projects.



NEW OFFICER

Daly City Police Captain Richard C. Sims congratulates Officer Thomas Kahle who recently was sworn in as a police officer for the City of Daly City. He is the former Cadet Kahle, who was, in effect, promoted to his present position upon reaching the age of 21. He is the ninth Cadet to be so elevated during the life of the Cadet program.

Greyhound Will Cancel Six School Buses

Business Manager John Lynch told the Jefferson Elementary School District Board of Trustees Oct. 3 that Greyhound Lines, Inc. plans to cancel operation of six of its 13 school buses Nov. 10.

As a result, Lynch said, he is working on a new bus arrangement to assure the district sufficient transportation for its children.

Greyhound gave the school district 45 days, notice, as provided in the contract, that it will terminate six buses Nov. 10 due to the beginning of the Bay Area Rapid Transit service from Contra Costa County to San Francisco.

BART's opening led Greyhound to halt use of six buses from the Walnut Creek area that would serve the district.

The bus lines also informed the district that it would raise the cost of the buses from $34.50 to $55 per day. That stipulation also was included in the contract pending BART's operation.

After the 4t day period, Lynch said he will have to find buses to replace those pulled out by Greyhound.

One possibility would be to obtain more buses from "Community Enterprises, Inc., a Santa Anna based company that already provides one 66-passenger bus for district activities at $58 a day.

Lynch indicated that since Greyhound buses held just 45 passengers, he might be able to use three Community vehicles with 66 seats, where four Greyhound buses were needed beforé.

In another matter, the board approved an after schools sports program at Benjamin Franklin, Colma Intermediate and Fernando Rivera. The program, open to girls and boys, includes flag football, soccer, volleyball, tennis and baseball.

Loyola Guild Slates Annual Luncheon

"Tomorrow's Chic Look," the 49th annual luncheon sponsored by Loyola Guild, will be held Oct. 19, at St. Ignatius College Preparatory, 2001-37th Ave.

This year the Guild will feature fashions by Livingston's.

Proceeds are used for scholarships for the University of San Francisco and St. Ignatius College Preparatory.

Reservations at $7 may be made with Mrs. Francis Boichot, 664-0189, or Mrs. G. Milton Thickett, 731-5197.

Damien Pact OKd

Renewal of the contract with Damien House, Inc., to provide a 24-hour telephone "crisis" service in Daly City was approved last Tuesday by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

However, the new contract does not provide for the continued operation of the same service in San Mateo.

County Director of Health and Welfare Dr. George Pickett informed the board that there was a "lack of efficacy" concerning the San Mateo operation.

Damien House provides referral service for persons facing personal or family crises and do not know how to contact directly the resources they need for assistance.

Pickett said the crises dealt with in the 11,484 calls received at the Daly City switchboard during 1973-74 fiscal year included crises involving mental illness, pregnancy, drug abuse, arrest and venereal disease.

Emphasis Now on Ability to Pay

County Backs Medical Benefits Program

An innovative plan to provide some 8,950 San Mateo County residents with medical benefits without the stigma of being deadbeats in paying for medical care was approved last Tuesday by the Board of Supervisors.

Proposed by county director of health and welfare Dr. George Pickett, the plan calls for annual averaging a patient's deductible costs of eligibility for medical payments, with emphasis on the patient's ability to pay.

Pickett said that the statewide medical program of establishing medical benefits is not based on the needs of patients, but is set up on the financial restraints of the program.

Breaking down the new program on the basis of a family with a gross income of $500 a month, Pickett said that under the medical system the family would have to pay the first $46 of medical care used each month.

Under the system being adopted in San Mateo County, the payment plan would be stretched over a year and the family would pay a total of $6 a month, or $72 a year.

In other words, Pickett said, the county would be virtually subsidizing medical care for low income persons by guaranteeing their medical care and charging them on a pre-payment basis rather than providing the service and running up a bill which the individual is unable to pay.

The financial effect of providing the repayment plan in the county plan will reduce the "accounts receivable" from patients by as much as $2.3 million a year, Pickett estimated.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes said that the new plan, which has been in preparation for two years, will require no new staffing in the Department of Health and Welfare.

Pickett termed the new plan a "rationale attempt by the county to do something about the messed up medical situation."

"The target," he said, "is to reach those most in need."

High Marks for Congressmen

Congressman Paul N. McCloskey, R-Palo Alto, has a "perfect" record of voting for issues supported by Common Cause, the 300,000 member non-partisan citizen's group fighting for openness in government and government financing of political campaigns.

Although Common Cause stresses that it does not rate congressmen's voting records, the group's latest "Report From Washington" states whether congressmen voted to support Common Cause stands on various issues.

The Peninsula's other congressman, Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo, had a nearly perfect record of voting to support Common Cause stands.

Ryan voted for a congressional reform bill which set guidelines for the use of representatives sending official mail for free. Common Cause, however, claimed the bill was too watered down and "not strong enough," therefore regarding Ryan's yes vote as opposite their stand on the issue. McCloskey voted against the bill.

Ryan also differed with Common Cause on a bill to establish public financing of Congressional election races — a measure which Ryan voted against while McCloskey supported it.

Ryan also voted for a measure which Common Cause claimed would protect incumbents against campaign spending limits. McCloskey voted against the measure.

Both congressmen, however, voted to support Common Cause stands on five other congressional and campaign reform bills.

McCloskey and Ryan also voted against increasing military aid to South Vietnam; they voted for a bill to cut off military funds for U.S. combat operations in Cambodia and Laos; and for a reduced defense budget. Common Cause supported their votes on all three measures.

Both Peninsula congressmen also voted for increasing the "home rule" of Washington, D.C. by the citizens who reside there. They voted for the establishment of a strong and independent agency to represent consumer's interest in government. Ryan and McCloskey also voted to support Common Cause stands on two environmental issues.

New Baden Principal Appointed

Sheldon Winston, 41, was appointed principal of Baden Continuation High School in South San Francisco last week.

Winston has been coordinator of child welfare and attendance since 1968. He came to South San Francisco from Los Angeles in 1959, and taught history and government at South San Francisco High School. He also was student government adviser, a counselor and a tennis coach. In 1964, he was appointed assistant principal at South San Francisco High.

Winston has had some 14 articles published in various professional journals, including one on West Virginia history. He had received a master's degree in history. He also had articles published in school management and school board journals.

Winston succeeds George T. Hurley, founding principal of Baden, who has been appointed principal of South San Francisco High.

Winston will continue in both positions until the board appoints a new coordinator of child welfare and attendance.

Papan Asks To Join SP Case

Assemblyman Louis J. Papan, D-Daly City, has announced he will file a formal request with the state Public Utilities Commission to allow him to intervene in the pending Southern Pacific Transportation Co. request for a 111 per cent fare increase on its Peninsula commuter runs.

Papan said he was "shocked by the testimony we heard" during two days of hearings at Burlingame City Hall two weeks ago by the Assembly Interim Subcommittee on San Francisco Rail Commuter Service, of which he was chairman.

"The proposed increase is even more outrageous than we suspected," Papan went on, saying that to allow the fare increase "would be tantamount to allowing SP to abandon the commuter service."

Papan added that testimony had shown SP financial figures were suspect and that the railroad hadn't explained an alleged operating deficit sufficiently.

Brownies are asked to bring a sack lunch; Cadettes will provide cool punch. Uniform of the day will include warm clothes and sturdy shoes with socks, no sandals.

BROWNIES KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL qill be the theme as girls bring an empty bag to fill with litter along their walk. Reservations must be made in advance with Special Events Chairwoman Mrs. Caroline Futrell.

Parental pick-up time is 2:30 to 3:00 p.m. at Thornton Beach. The event is scheduled to be an entry in the national Keep America Beautiful campaign contest.

JUNIOR TROOP NO. 581 invited their "old" troop members Danielle Miller, Lori Abrahamsohn, Kelly Torres, Marcella Rodriquez and Sharon Scarpino as guests at their recent weekend camp at Bothin in Marin County.

Swimming, hiking and an evening campfire featuring a marshmallow roast were highlights of the trip which was led by Mesdames Ruth Lapachet and Stella Smith.

Linda Boggs, Linda Actis, Veronica Bartolome, Maria Bernardo, Celina Mann, Anna Pilch, Ana Maria Casado, Stephanie Mitchell, Alicia Smith, Elizabeth Lapachet, Lisa Goodman, and Terri Deutoni enjoyed the outing. Carla Smith served as an aide.

SCOUTLOOK DEADLINE is Oct. 15, according to Mrs. Becky Burke, editor. This issue will cover November-December.

CALENDAR ORDERS are also due Oct. 15, to Mrs. Lynn Bolton, 755-9629. Troop leaders are urged to contact Mrs. Bolton as soon as possible wih their orders.

MRS. NANCY WALTERS, 756-0455, has been appointed Daly City Girl Scout wider opportunities liaison to promote Cadette and Senior applications, according to Daly City Association Chairwoman Mrs. Margaret Connolly.

CHILDREN'S NEWS CONFERENCE, 2 KPIX-TV public affairs department presentation produced by Bill Hazelwood, recently featured two local Senior Scouts. Darice Robinson, a senior at Westmoor High and a member of MSS No. 13, discussed her trips to "3 D Lingo" and "Women in Action."

Leslie Schwarzbach, a sophomore at Serramonte High, also discussed "Women in Action," a wider opportunity held this summer in Washington, D.C. The subject of the news conference was Senior Scouting in general and wider opportunities in particular.

Highlights Of Scouting Showcase

Even the newest Scoutmaster in Northern District had a display at Scouting Showcase '74 on the Serramonte Shopping Center Mall recently.

Tom Hughes, incoming Scoutmaster of Troop '84, meeting Thursday evening at 7:30 at Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, 377-87th St., in Daly City, presented a color picture table display at the local Scouting celebration. Hughes had been Scoutmaster for only one week prior to his display.

Explorer Post '817, sponsored by the Daly City Police Department gave away safety manuals wih it's booth manned Brian Boyd and Jeff Spencer. Sgt. Bob Solo is their advisor.

The Order of the Arrow dance team performed on the Serramonte center stage and around the mall area both Saturday and Sunday. Chief Mike Fuller was joined by Mark Silverstein on the tom tom an Jim Davis.

Troop '275, San Bruno, presented a slide show of their Canadian trip for which they earned all the money themselves. Ken Dennis is Scoutmaster.

Troop '179, Jim Fosberg Scoutmaster, presented a planetariam with Dave and Gary Bergero, Ron Bouno, John Segalli, Aris Veblis, Carl Olson, Glen Klipfel and John Marestin conducting tours. The troop is sponsored by Winston Manor Community Association.

Troop '148, Don Davis Scoutmaster, Jim Ward assistant scoutmaster, had a recruiting booth "manned" by Scouts Jim Davis, Andy Falenski and Leslie Beatles.

Pack 296, Dale Olson, Cubmaster, invited children on the mall to play skill games and gave out South San Francisco safety stickerk. Cubs participating included Steve Salazan, David Segale, Larry and Ernie Barrett and Dino Martini.

Troop '276, Bill Hoffman Scoutmaster, presented a camping display complete with camping library. On Saturday, explaining camping procedures to shoppers were Ray Prisk, Bob Arbitter and Mark Coffman.

Park '148 entertained shoppers with their Wheel of Fortune. Additional Scouts and Scouters participated on Sunday.

Grady Hesters Named New LSSD Trustee

Grady Hesters, 32, was appointed to the Laguna Salada School Board by a 4-0 vote of the trustees Thursday.

Hesters' term expired last March 31, but he indicated he would run for the seat in that month's election. The appointment of Hesters fills the vacancy left by the resignation of Anita Heyman.

Hesters, who has resided in Pacifica for 10 years, is manager of Channel 8, the local cable television and radio station.

He said he has been involved with the district five years, including participating in its cooperative nursery school and in the formation of the Valley Mar alternative class.

In another matter, the school board approved purchase of a 16-passenger minibus for $6,397, though two trustees strongly objected to the plan.

Approval came only because board member Wilbur Frye voted a "reluctant yes" despite his dissatisfaction with the proposal.

Superintendent James Brien explained the need for the bus developed from a problem at Crespi School.

Due to the Crespi extended reading program, it was discovered that dismissal at the elementary and at Terra Nova High School was similar, meaning that both needed busing at the same time.

Thus, another bus was needed to make the school work at Crespi, Brien said.

Frye complained that the administration had provided insufficient facts and that all the alternatives, short of purchase of the bus, were not explored.

Lois Young also expressed concern over the lack of alternatives and voted against the purchase.

Arts and Crafts Donations Asked

Pictures, posters, or pottery to be peddled in an "First Annual Arts and Crafts for Christmas" sale, Oct. 18 to Nov 22, are being sought by the San Mateo County Arts Council.

Dick Sperisen, gallery chairman for the Council, said the idea of the sale "is to make available to the public, a well balanced and moderately priced group of original works by county arts and craftsmen, during the peak of the holiday buying season."

All works will be sold at $50 or less, he said.

The Arts Council will take 20 per cent off the top, to support its county-wide minigallery system.

Artists who contribute works outright, can list them as tax deductions, Speriser said.

Hints from the BBB

Know Benefits of Insurance Policy

By LORENE BEASLEY
Editor of BBB Barometer

Every insurance buyer, should know the benefits of his insurance policy.

Special attention should be paid to the limitations and exclusion provisions. A thorough reading of the policy will determine if a rider or a restrictive endorsement which limits the coverage in a special way has been placed on the policy.

Millions of accident and health claims are filed each year so percentage-wise the number of complaints received are small. Some of the complaints are confined to a relatively small number of companies who try to take advantage of the public through flamboyant and misleading advertising.

Other complaints are results of honest differences of opinion. These differences arise because of misunderstaing of the actual coverage or because of pre-existing conditions of health. (A pre-existing condition is a disease or condition which manifests itself before the effective date of policy or date specified in policy.)

The Better Business Bureau receives numerous inquiries from senior citizens regarding the purchase of sickness and accident insurance. Following are a few recommendations that might help senior citizens avoid problems when buying sickness and accident insurance.

— Policies should be purchased from companieslic licensed to do business in California. Companies not licensed may legally do business in California thrugh the mail but not by agents. Therefore, little or no assistance can be expected in case of a disputed claim.

— Insurance policies, if possible, should be purchased from agents the senior citizens know and trust.

— It should be determined whether or not coverage is provided under the policy for pre-existing conditions.

— Complete disclosure of one's health history to the best of one's knowlege is of prime importance. Make sure before signing that no material facts have been changed or omitted.

— Beware of the agent who urges that an existing policy can be dropped to purchase a new policy in the company he represents. Sickness or a condition may not be covered under a new policy. Such sickness or condition may have existed prior to the effective date of the new policy.

— Any newly insured person, particularly the senior citizen, should, upon receiving the policy of insurance, read it immediately. This is to assure him that the coverage received is what he thought he was purchasing.

LSSD Gets Progress Reports on 3 Projects

The Laguna Salada Board of Trustees received progress reports on three of the district's current projects Thursday dealing with goals, gifted children and a joint study with the high schools.

It was agreed that two committees be assembled to study and make recommendations on the first two goals of the district for 1974-75.

A 24-member committee, composed of administrators, a board member, principals, teachers and citizens, will study the goal of developing and beginning to implement a comprehensive plan for the improvement of the educational program in grades four through eight.

A 23-member committee, composed of employe groups, the superintendent, director of personnel and citizens, will study the goal which calls for a comprehensive plan for the improvement of the district's status relative to other districts in the state.

The board plans to name the members of the committees by the Oct. 17 meeting.

Supt. James Brien also gave the board an initial report on the program for the "Mentally Gifted Minor."

State regulations state that to qualify, a student must have an approved I.Q. test score of 99 percentile or at grades 7-12, a 98 percentile on group intelligence and 98 on one section of approved achievement tests. They would include reading, math, science, or social science.

A cast study must be maintained by a committee for each child, and parent consent is mandatory for participation in the program.

In order to receive state funds, the program must last 17 weeks a semester at 200 minutes per week or eight weeks, including 60 hours of instruction.

Brien said a committee has been formed to develop the proposal, which it hopes to present to the board by February, 1975. The committee is composed of two teachers, two parents, two principals and a psychologist.

Trustees also received a report on the progress of the articulation concerns being developed by a joint committee of representatives from both Laguna Salada and the Jefferson Union High School District.

The purpose of the program is to develop better cohesion between the seventh and eighth grades and the high schools to make the transition for the students as effective as possible.

The committee has narrowed down 70 concerns expressed by teachers in meetings last May 17.

Among the concerns, that will now be placed in order of importance by the teachers, are a need to establish procedures for identification of student problems and feedback; need to determine why there is duplication of subject matter and lack of continuity of programs; and the need to study and better understand the social-academic transition of pupils.

Four Held In Shooting

Four Pacifica men were arrested by police shortly after they allegedly shot a man in San Bruno during a midnight dispute over a minor vehicle accident, police report.

San Bruno police put out an all-points bulletin for the four men, following the shooting of David Castillo, 20, of South San Francisco near the corner of El Camino Real and Jenevein street about midnight.

Less than 30 minutes later, South San Francisco police stopped the vehicle containing Thomas M. Sullivan, 24, 743 Lockhaven, a plastics worker; Camelo Colon, 19, 415 Firecrest, an oddjobber; Allen James Bell, 24, 468 Manor Drive, a pool cleaner, and Dale R. Bell, 20, 427 Johnson Ave., a machinist.

All four reside in Pacifica, police said.

The victim was shot twice in the arm with a .22-caliber handgun, police said. He was treated at a nearby hospital and released.

Both Sullivan and Colon are charged with assault with a deadly weapon and are in the county jail at Redwood City. Bail for the two was set at $5.000.

Allen and Dale Bell also were charged with assault with a deadly weapon and were released on bail of $5.000, police said.

Special Mass Scheduled for Columbus Day

Frank J. Andres, Jr., president of the Saint Francis Chapter, Knights of Columbus, announced that the Chapter will host a special Communion Dinner to commemorate Columbus Day, Oct. 12.

Mass will be celebrated by Father John Ryan, Past State Chaplain at Saint Mary's Church, 21 First St., Gilroy at 6 p.m.

Following mass, a steak dinner will be served in the parish hall to the Chapter delegates and their guests.

SSF Fire Prevention Week Awards Given

Two men will receive special Fire Prevention Week awards today in South San Francisco for their "untiring efforts in the field of fire prevention and education."

Firefighter William Gerk and realtor F. D. "Dick" Minucciani will be honored by the Fire Prevention Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the Fire Prevention Week activities now in progress.

The two recipients will be the guests of honor at a luncheon beginning at 12:15 p.m. at the Rodeway Inn, with no host cocktail time at 11:45 a.m.

Guest speaker at the luncheon will be Assemblyman Louis J. Papan, who will speak on the subject of fire prevention.

Gerk is a 13-year veteran of the South San Francisco Fire Department and is well known for the time he volunteers to teach school schildren about fire prevention. Minucciani, active in community affairs, has long been a staunch supporter of the city's fire prevention efforts.

The chamber's Fire Prevention Committee, chaired by Al Martin, has been working with the cooperation of Fire Chief Lawrence Toellner and his department to coordinate this week's activities.

Tonight on cable television channel 3 at 6 p.m., Fire Capt. Albert Jones will speak about fire prevention with an emphasis on home fire safety and the fire department's home inspection program.

According to Jones, home fires are responsible for about a third of the 13,000 annual fire-related deaths in the United States and Canada.

The last of the week's special television programs will be televised tomorrow at 6 p.m. on cable channel 3 and will feature Dr. Angelo Capozzi of San Francisco's St. Francis Burn Center. He will talk about fire-related injuries, which number approximately 300,000 a year in the U.S. and Canada.

Tomorrow, as part of the fire department's year-round education program, Capt. Richard Rosinski will give all city employees instruction in first aid and the use of fire extinguishers as well as fire prevention information. Capt. Tony Pini will give similar information to employees of the General Services Administration facility.

By the end of the weeek, every elementary school in the city will be given a fire prevention demonstration by local firefighters. Included in the demonstration are the use of gas masks and ladders and how to hook hoses up to hydrants.

Culminating the week will be a dramatic simulated roof rescue with an aerial ladder and the staged rescue of persons trapped in wrecked autos. These public demonstrations will take place Sunday at the Buri Buri Shopping Center on El Camino Real beginning at 1:30 p.m. The demonstrations will be repeated at the Westborough Square Shopping Center on Westborough Blvd. beginning at 2:45 p.m.

Rotary Club Scholarship to DC Miss

Skyline College student Paulette Jacobson of Daly City will soon be spending a year in Poitiers, France, but not as a tourist. The Internations Relations student will attend the University of Poitiers on a full scholarship awarded recently by the Burlingame branch of the International Rotary Club.

"I'm absolutely delighted to have an opportunity like this. I am also very honored," the 22 year old said of the scholarship which includes air fare, tuition, books, living expenses and intensive language training costs for one month prior to starting classes.

Miss Jacobson has picked up French quickly although she has had only one year of French at Westmoor High School and one year at Skyline.

This semester she is taking 16 units, working part-time and still maintaining a 4.0 grade point average. After returning from France Jacobson said she intends to further her studies at either UC Berkeley or the University of San Francisco.

The Daly City resident explained she does not anticipate having difficulty securing a job in the international relations field because not only can she speak French but she also reads it and writes it. "It's a really good field to get into," the sophomore stated.

Miss Jacobson speculated on why she had won. "My grades are very good and they wanted someone to go over there and spread goodwill." She added that her being older and having already traveled to Europe in 1970 may have influenced the Rotary Club's decision.

Reno Trip Is Planned

Court St. Mary No. 1155, Catholic Daughters of America, is sponsoring a one-day Bus Trip to Reno Oct. 12.

Departure time is 7:30 a.m. from Our Lady of Perpetual Help School, 80 Wellington Ave., Daly City, with approximate return at midnight.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Sabina Day at 755-3780 on a first come-first served basis.

Court Regent, Mrs. William Cuevas, extends an invitation to members, their families and friends, to join the Court's Pot Luck Dinner Oct. 17, at 6:30 p.m.

Chairlady Mrs. Betty Traynor may be reached at 585-9132, for reservations.

'Whale of a Good Time' Is Planned

Mrs. Walter C. Thomson, first vice president of the Golden Gate District, California Federation of Women's Clubs has been appointed chairwoman of the special activity planned for members of San Mateo, San Francisco and Marin counties.

Mrs. William R. Porter of San Mateo, district president, said Oct. 14 has been set for the "Whale of a Good Time" to get better acquainted with the members of the three counties and to assist in the ways and means projects sponsored by the district.

The 10 a.m. gathering will be at the American Legion Hall, San Mateo.

Mrs. Patrick Moore of San Mateo is in charge of the arrangements and will also handle the games in the afternoon. Mrs. Walter J. Clark of San Francisco (LO 4-0625) is in charge of reservations and tickets.

The buffet luncheon is being directed by Mrs. Jay L. Heisel of San Carlos and Mrs. Modesto Regalia.

There will be a bakery and gourmet table, with Mrs. John Perotti of San Bruno and Mrs. Arnold Grumm of Pacifica, chairwomen. Mrs. Clarence Bork and Mrs. John L. Jonas of Burlingame are in charge of the silent auction and the plants and special floral arrangements, with Mrs. Richard A. Andresen of San Mateo and Mrs. Albert J. Wilson, also of San Mateo.

Arts and Crafts will be handled by Mrs. Eugene Sullivan of Belmont and Mrs. Richard Lipp of Daly City.

Punt, Pass Kick Contest

Saturday at 10 a.m. at Westlake Park, Serramonte Ford and the Daly City Recreation Department are sponsoring the annual NFL - Punt, Pass and Kick contest for boys 8-13 years old.

Contestants compete against others their own age for an award and the right to advance to the district competition.

Application forms must be signed by a parent or guardian. These forms may be picked up at Serramonte Ford, 999 Serramonte Blvd., or at the local playgrounds from the Recreation Leader.

Pacifican Presented Insurance Award

Charles P. Linden of Pacifica, Sales Representative, with Metropolitan Life Insurance Company was awarded the coveted Chartered Life Underwriter designation at National Conferment Exercises of the American College of Life Underwriters in Bal Harbour, Florida last month.

The American College grants the CLU designation to persons engaged in activities relating to the insuring of human life values and who pass a series of professional examinations and meet the stringent experience and ethical requirements of the College.

This year more than 2,200 men and women will be awarded the designation, bringing to over 32,000 the number of people who have received it since the College was founded in 1972.

Linden is a member of the National Association of Life Underwriters and also a member of the leading Life Insurance producers of Northern California. He is a graduate of both the Life Underwriter Training Council and the Life Office Management Asspciation. Last year he attained mmbuvship in Metropolitan Life's President's Conference by providing his clients with over $1.5 million of insurance protection.

The CLU program was established to meet the professional education needs of the men and women who provide life and health insurance service to the public. The courses cover such areas as: fundamentals of life and health insurance, group insurance, health insurance and pensions; law, trusts and taxation; economics and finance; and business insurance and estate planning.

Locally, CLU classes are taught at University of San Francisco.

RARE PERFORMANCE
Gerald Hiken and Paul Richards, of the New Theater, will perform at the Congregation B'nai Israel in Daly City Oct. 13.

Hiken and Richards in Daly City

Gerald Hiken and Paul E. Richards (T.N.T. — The New Theater) famous for their numerous film and television appearances are giving one of their rare performances Oct. 13 at 7 p.m. at Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City.

Clive Barnes of the New York Times said "I liked it. Partly because I admired Mr. Hiken and Mr. Richards as actors, and they seemed affable."

Their program will consist of the play called Encounter, the Great Bolyavski, Amber Grains of Blue and other skits.

Tickets are available at the Synagogue office 756-5430 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 992-2603 from 4 to 10 p.m. Tickets are $3 for adults, $1.50 children 4-12 including a dessert buffet after the performance.

A champagne hour at 6 p.m. will precede the performance according to chairman of the event, Gerald Fox.

SF Library

Kicking San Francisco, like football and darts, is becoming a national sport. Indeed, it is hard to find a newspaper these days that doesn't throw a stone at some San Francisco institution.

Many of these reports fail to tell the whole story. Of them one may say, as Nancy Musser wrote, "They — the team making a certain report — did not consider the quality of service given. They counted people without any concern for what they did."

Take Ms. Musser's major concern, the public library. Here is an institution that provides a high degree of service in spite of such problems as outmoded budget procedures, an archaic main library, an oppressive civil service law and most of all, a lack of funds.

In 1972-73 the San Francisco Public Library operated on a smaller tax rate than libraries in such cities and counties as Berkeley, Marin County, Oakland, San Jose, Santa Clara County and Stanislaus County. Yet for several of these it remained a major resource and, indeed, the center of area-wide library service.

In spite of its wornout main library, the San Francisco Public Library offers some truly noteworthy departments. One of these is a file of 18th and 19th century pictures; another is its Martin Luther King Memorial Negro History Collection and still another is its files on regional artists and musicians.

For me one of the most valuable collections is known as the San Francisco History Room. During the last few years this department has opened its files so they are more accessible and taken other steps to make history exciting. For example, history pictures have been copied for public use, a photographer has been engaged to record current events with photographs. Already these and many, many other services are providing researchers, especially students from the universities, with materials that are not available elsewhere.

This does not say that the San Francisco Public Library has overcome its problems, or even given hope that it will surmount them unless changes are made, but it does say that city officials have in the present services the foundations upon which they could build an institution that would do credit to a city as wonderful as San Francisco

Let the officials realize that history shows that few cities grow memorable that do not provide notable public libraries. Let them understand that today's library is a place where more than books are maintained. It now provides a testament of the life that swirls about in film, tapes, records, video film, cassetts and every other form of communication being used as well as books.

To provide such a library in San Francisco will be a great task to tackle but future generations will bless the memory of mayors and supervisors who rise to the occasion.

Daly City Civic Ballet Holds Potluck Dinner

The Daly City Civic Ballet, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, held its third Annual potluck dinner at the Westlake Community Center recently.

Guests helped themselves to a large variety of casseroles, chicken, ham and salads.

The Daly City Civic Ballet Board of Directors held its installation ceremonies for new officers. Outgoing President Mrs. Robert Brown read the duties as the following officers were installed: president, Mrs. George Frenkel; vice-president, Mrs. Andrew Baumann; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Theodore Miller; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert Brizuela; treasurer, Mrs. Vincent Rigoni; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Joseph Abruzzo; wardrobe mistress, Mrs. Raymond Tschirgi; and advisor, Mrs. Richard Torres.

Katherine Bradshaw, recreation supervisor for the Daly City Recreation Department, and honorary Member of the Board of Directors, presented a certificate of merit to the past president, Mrs. Robert Brown for the outstanding work she has done for the Civic Ballet.

Diane Roberts, Dance Director, presented membership certificates to senior members, Gayle Rigoni and Rana Quirreh. Both girls have been members of the Civic Ballet since it began.

Under the instruction of Miss Roberts, members of the Junior and Senior Civic Ballet gave the guests a sneak preview of the upcoming Civic Ballet Winter performance.

Proceeds from the potluck dinner will be used to cover production costs for the Civic Ballet Winter program.

Jewish Education Is Sermon Topic

Sabbath services will be conducted at Congregation B'nai Israel Oct. 11, beginning at 8:30 p.m. Rabbi Ira Book and Cantor Jacob Graudenz will conduct the service.

Rabbi Book announced that he will share his pulpit with professor M. Lewistein, instructor at San Francisco State University, who will speak on "The Jewish Stake in Education".

An additional highlight of the evening will be the Hebrew naming of Stacy Kim and Lorie Lynn Landau, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Landau. The service will be followed by an Oneg Shabbat. (social hour). Sabbath services will continue on Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m. and, also will be conducted by Rabbi Book and Cantor Graudenz.

Mrs. Rbbert Sorkin, vice-president and membership chairwoman, announces that the Sisterhood of Congregation B'nai Israel will hold its annual membership tea Oct. 14, at 7:30 p.m. At that time, President Mrs. Leonard Greendorfer, will welcome new members of the congregation, introduce board members and start the new Sisterhood year rolling.

The program for the evening will be a fashion show, under the direction of Mrs. Hal Stehman, vice-president and program chairwoman. Models will be members of the Sisterhood and commentary will be written by Mrs. Ira Book. The evening will conclude with refreshments. All current and prospective members of the Sisterhood are invited to attend. Fashions are from Bartels and the commentary will be given by Channah Bartels.

Even though the religious school year has begun, students will be accepted for Hebrew and Sunday School at Congregation B'nai Israel. Membership in the Congregation is required and also includes Sabbath and festival services, Bar/Bat Mitzvah training, youth groups, Men's Club, Sisterhood as well as an Adult Education program that will begin soon.

Details may be had by contacting the Synagogue office 756-5430 or membership chairman, Bernard Shain, 756-5135.

Today is the last day to make reservations for the Expo Italiano to be held Friday evening in the Our Lady of Mercy Parish hall.

According to publicity chairwoman Mrs. Lyn Dougherty, live music by the Keynotes will make this an evening of dancing to a delightful sound. A buffet will be served at 11 p.m.

For reservations call Mrs. Charles Boerio, 755-7834, or Mrs. Ed Carey, 992-2019.

If it is too late for you to make arrangements to attend Expo Italiano, perhaps you can mark your calendar and reserve Oct. 23 for another event being planned by the Westlake Catholic Women of Our Lady of Mercy parish.

Mrs. Julian Fernando, chairwoman of the Westlake Catholic Women's Day at the Races, has named Mrs. Donald Bechtel, 756-5266, and Mrs. John McVeigh, 755-5936, to accept calls for reservations. Tickets, costing $8.50 each, will entitle guests to admission to Bay Meadows, a complimentary program, and luncheon in the Turf Club.

WHEN EVER you have a bit of free time on your hands consider signing up to the series of mini-course being offered now and through Dec. 16 by the Congregation of St. Andrew's.

Mrs. Margaret Holland reports that classes geared for all ages and scheduled at various hours of the morning, afternoon and evening, have been organized by Father John Riley and two Sisters new to the parish, Sister Jeaninne Weis, director of Family Life education and Sister Irmalyn Berkert director of religious education.

A fee of $20 will permit all the members of a family to take part in as many of the courses as they wish, Mrs. Holland explained.

Among the courses being offered are Man and the Creative Process, Father Frank Norris instructing; Whatever Happened to Adam and Eve?, Father John Riley; Creative Christian Crafts, Nel Norton; Christmas Cookie Cookie Creations Demonstrated, Nel Norton; Women's Awareness Workshop, Sister Joan Murphy, PBVM, and a second section of that class will be taught by Joanne Del Carlo; Shifting Gears, Sister Jacquline Coruch, S.M.; The Gospel of St. Luke, Sister Jeanine Weis; On Death and Dying, Marge Bencivenga and Pat Mullooly; On Family Life (a class of special interest to persons of Filipiano extraction), Bob and Portia Bautista; and a Course in Christian Initiation, a repeat of a class offered frequently in the parish, will be offered.

For a brochure containing all the details about the project call 756-3330 or 992-4577.

MRS. DOROTHY BURNS will be happy to supply any North Peninsula resident with information about the Ninety sixth anniversary Get together of the Alumnae of St. Peter's being planned for Saturday.

Reservations, costing $3.50 per person, are available for the wine tasting, which will be held on the Carlin Commons at St. Ignatius College Preparatory.

LOCALITE JIM MORINO was the pilot for Jack LaLane when that worthy gentleman made his remarkable swim from Alcatrz to Acquatic Park this past week.

LaLanne swam a course plotted by Lawton Hughes, who with Tom Troneum was in the lead pilot boat. Morino was rowing a boat with Dolphin Club photographer Jerry Hawryluk aboard.

While Morino was off rowing about the bay, wife Hoz was busy, as usual turning out publicity for the locl Girl Scouts.

This coming Saturday the Daly City Brownies will leave the fountain area of the Westlake Shopping Center for a hike to Thornton Beach, picking up trash and litter along the way. Once they arrive at Thornton Beach they will have a nature hike conducted by a naturalist. Parents will pick the girls up at the beach at 2:30 p.m.

Brownie troop leaders who wish their groups to take part in the Keep America Beautiful hike, are asked to call the Special Events chairwoman Mrs. Caroline Futrell or Mrs. Morino for reservations.

Regulations call for each six Brownies tobe accompanied by one adult. Brownies are asked to bring a bag lunch. Cool punch will be provided by the Cadette Scouts. No sandals will be allowed, and girls are reminded to dress warmly and wear comfortable and sturdy shoes and socks. Every girl will bring her own large plastic bag for the collection of litter.

TUTORS ARE in short supply for a new session of the Canon Community Center Reading and Study program, according to Serramonte's Mrs. Linda Guerrero, one of two teachers coordinating the program with center director John Marshall.

Volunteers are needed for the study hall part of the program which runs from 6:30 p.m. until 7 p.m. on Wednesday nights in the Canon Kip Community House at Eighth and Natoma streets. Tutors are invited to remain for the 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. period as well and work as aides while the credientialed teachers work in the reading program.

Those interested in obtaining details about his program are asked to contact Mrs. Guerrero, after 3 p.m. at 992-7854 or John Marshall between 2:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. at Canon Kip Community House, 861-6801.

THE PENINSULA Association for Gifted Children, "PAGS", will offer a series of mini courses for students in grades two through eight in the Turnbull Middle School in San Mateo beginning on Oct. 19 between 9 a.m. and 12:20 p.m.

Courses geared to age groups will include a session called Inventions and others entitled Six Legged Science; Boom, Toot, Whistle and Hoot; leathercraft; movie makers; Trial by Jury 2; Logic Games; It's Magic and An Art Exploration.

Tuition for each one hour class is $9 plus a $1 registration fee per family. Some courses will require special materials, and in such cases there will be a materials fee.

For details about the PAGS project call 341-2557 or 345-1045.

MEMBERS OF the San Francisco Alumnae Chapter of the Alpha Iota Sorority will observe Founders Day on Oct. 16 at 7:30 p.m.

Those wishing details about the gathering are asked to contact Mrs. Janice McCraney, president, 993-6986.

Remember Back When . . .

Garson Kanin's Personal Hollywood Memories

By MICHELLE CARTER

Remember back when kids were flocking to Hollywood to sit at lunch counters in hopes of being "discovered" like Lana Turner?

Back when movie studios kept stables of stars under contract and sought out scripts that would suit their own performers?

When such luminaries as Carole Lombard and Barbara Stanwyck had nine and 10-room "bungalows" on the studio lots and entire retinues to ease their way through the rigors of movie-making?

Back when no one would ever have believed that bread lines in Hollywood would be a real possibility?

Our own personal memories of those days may be waning, but Garson Kanin's remembrances are as sharp and clear as the day he answered Sam Goldwyn's summons "to learn about the business" and walked into the Goldwyn studios in 1937.

Kanin, who has since learned the business well enough to accumulate notable successes as a playwright, director and author, shares his lifelong passion with the movies in his new book, "Hlllywood: Stars and Starlets, Tycoons and Flesh-Peddlers, Moviemakers and Moneymakers, Frauds and Geniuses, Hopefuls and Has-Beens, Great Lovers and Sex Symbols" (Viking, $8.95).

Kanin tells his story as a series of revealing vignettes about John Barrymore (who had to have even the briefest of his lines written out on a blackboard in front of him), Harry Cohn (the tough-guy producer who refused to bend under pressure from the House Committee on Un-American Activities), Greta Garbo (who confessed to never having received a love letter) and Carole Lombard (who, Kanin noted, "used the full, juicy Anglo-Saxon vocabulary").

In fact, Kanin believes that the Carole Lombard story is truly one of those "discovery" dreams come true. Carole, "a slightly chubby, very peppy blonde from Indiana named Jane Peters, later known as Carol Lombard, later still as Carole Lombard.

"She was the only star I have ever known who did not want a dressing room on the set . . . I never knew her to fluff a line. She liked everyone and everyone adored her. She was happy."

Not all of the Hollywood biggies reveal themselves to be such pleasant people under Kanin's magnifying glass. Charles Laughton, it turns out, "enjoyed being difficult, not because it disconcerted others, but because being difficult made him special, the center of attention."

But the person Kanin scrutinizes most carefully in the 400 pages of his book is his mentor Samuel Goldwyn, the man who persisted in calling Kanin, "Talboig," a Goldwynised reference to Irving Thalberg, the brilliant young producer and head of Universal Studios.

"Someone had erroneously suggested to Goldwyn that I resembled Irving Thalberg, and it pleased him to accept this as fact. He derived a vicarious pleasure out of having someone in his employ whom he could call 'Talboig,' especially since he paid 'Talboig' less than he paid his secretary."

Through Goldwin's personal history, Kanin traces the development of the film industry in America.

"Sept. 14, 1895 . . . It was at this time and place that Sammy Goldfish, a 13-year-old orphan arrived . . . On that day, although America had countless theatres, music halls, cabarets, and tent shows everywhere, there did not exist anywhere in the country, a single motion-picture theatre."

Seven years later Goldwyn and company made their first film, for $30,000 in 11 days in Flagstaff, Ariz. Forty years later "there weere 19,032 motion-picture theatres and an industry that produced some 700 feature films each year to supply them, and no individual was more important or more powerful than Samuel Goldwyn, who had metamorphasized out of young Sammy Goldfish."

The "Goldwyn" part of the name came from a merger of Goldwyn and Archibald Selwyn, Goldwyn's first partner.

"It came out Goldwyn because we wanted to put our names together — and listed, it was the only way to do it. Archie — he was the jolly brother — I remember he said, 'Another way to do it is to call it Selfish Pictures, Inc.' "

Later Goldwyn changed his own name to Goldwyn, pulled out of the company that was to become Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and formed his own company. But the man inside was still the same man who set out to Europe in the Thirties to hire Sigmund Freud as a studio adviser.

Kanin, who previously authored "Tracy and Hepburn" for Viking, discusses Hollywood with the gentleness of a lover. The book is brimful of the kinds of tender tales other lovers of the bigamous lady will thrill to, but such a passionate admirer as Kanin realizes that the Hollywood he describes is over.

He relates that Goldwyn presided over Hollywood from its very beginning until "almost its end." Goldwyn died this past January.

Carolann Coyle Becomes a Bride

Carolann Coyle, daughter of Mrs. Ruth L. Coyle of South San Francisco and Benjamin J. Coyle Jr. of St. Louis, Mo., recently became the bride of Bill Randolph Stewart. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Stewart of South San Francisco.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles H. Washburn of Pacifica at a chapel set up at the Royal Coach Motor Hotel. A reception followed in the Sir Galahad room of the hotel.

The bride wore a white peau de soie gown detailed with lace and pearls. Her honor attendant, Heidi Heilman of San Francisco, wore pale pink and the bridesmaid, Michelle Tatum of Daly City, selected a pale blue dress.

James Spencer of San Bruno was the best man, and Dennis Costa of Redwood City performed ushering duties.

The newlyweds, who honeymooned in Monterey, are living now in San Mateo.

Terra Novans On The Job Training

Terra Nova students enrolled in Rose Berta's block session advanced marketing class, instead of being on school campus during class sessions, are working at Montgomery Wards.

Montgomery Wards was selected as the site of the students' training, because Mrs. Berta and principal Thanos Panagoulias believed that students interested in the marketing and distributive occupation should be able to have a "hands on" experience through training.

The students are able to find out what it takes to be a professional salesperson, a shipping clerk, a buyer, a designer, a stock clerk, an advertiser.

Students attending receive a regular orientation, which all employees of Wards' go through. After the orientation and instructions on professional selling and operation on the cash register, the students are placed in various departments of the store. These departments are their "training stations" for a few days, until they're rotated to a new "training station" where they can experience as many learning experiences as possible.

The class is currently composed of 23 students, all seniors. There are, however, many students desiring to take this course, including students from Jefferson, Oceana, Serramonte, Thornton, and Westmoor. Success of the class at Terra Nova could result in future expansion of the program, it was explained.

Reunion

The Balboa Spring Class of 1959 is planning its fifteen year reunion to be held Oct. 19.

SM GRADUATE

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Peterson Field, Colo., is the new assignment of Air Force Staff Sergeant William R. Pflieger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Pflieger, 1525 Royal Ave., San Mateo.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

How nice to start off a column with a recipe that is being repeated by special request. I recently took a cake to a birthday party where it was well received and tho it's a cake I've made many times, obviously there are those who haven't. For you who love a rich lemony cake . . . here it is.

LORETTO'S LEMON GELATIN CAKE

1 package yellow cake mix
4 eggs
¾ cup water
¾ cup oil
1 package lemon gelatin, small size

Combine the one package cake mix with the four eggs, three-fourths cup each water and oil and one package lemon gelatin in a large bowl and beat two minutes with electric mixer.

Pour into a well-greased 9x13-inch pan. Bake 30 to 40 minutes in 350-degree oven.

While the cake is baking, make a sauce of the following ingredients.

SAUCE

2 scant cups powdered sugar, sifted
Juice of 2 lemons

Immediately on taking the baked cake from the oven, poke holes all through the top with a fork (the more holes the merrier) and pour the lemon sauce over the cake. The sauce will seep down through the holes to make a delightfully moist cake.

Note: When I made the birthday cake, I didn't use the lemon sauce. When the cake was thoroughly cooled it was frosted with whipped cream and topped with a light sprinkling of finely grated lemon peel. As the decoration, I stuck two stripped candy sticks in the cake and with a banner, cut from white paper and inscribed with the appropriate sentiments stretched between them.

An entree that's very easy to make, looks and tastes delicious, feeds six nicely and uses just one and one-half pounds of ground meat sounds good doesn't it?

DOLORES'S DEEP DISH BISCUIT MEAT PIE

1½ pounds ground beef
½ cup chopped onion
1 6-oz. can tomato paste
1 2-oz. can undrained mushrooms, stems and pieces
1 teaspoon oregano
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 can refrigerated buttermilk biscuits
1 tomato, sliced
1 cup shredded mozzarella or cheddar cheese

Preheat the oven to 350-degrees.

Brown the one and one-half pounds meat with one-half cup chopped onion. Drain. Stir in the six ounces tomato paste, two-ounces mushrooms and liquid, one teaspoon oregano, one teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon pepper. Simmer for 10 minutes.

Press biscuits (10) into a 9-inch greased pie pan to form crust. Spoon meat mixture into crust. Slice one tomato and arrange atop pie, sprinkle with one cup shredded cheese. Bake 20 to 25 minutes until golden brown in 350-degree oven.

Let stand five minutes before slicing into wedges to serve. Serves six.

Refrigerate any leftover and reheat to serve again.

ON ENTERPRISE

Navy Electrician's Mate Second Class Dennis M. Duchmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Duchmann of 1531 Tarrytown St., San Mateo, has left Alameda aboard the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier USS Enterprise on a deployment to the Western Pacific.

The Enterprise will operate from Subic Bay, Republic of the Philippines, as a unit of the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

During the cruise, Duchmann is scheduled to participate in fleet training exercises and visit several Far Eastern countries.

A former student of the College of San Mateo, he joined the Navy in June 1969.

Unique Fund-raiser By Coast Sorority

A unique fund-raising event was announced to members of Pacifica's Xi Lambda Phi chapter of the international society of Beta Sigma Phi at the home of Edy Greenley recently.

The project evolved as the "brain-child" of Shirlee Gibbs, ways and means chairman, with co-chairman Judy Nelson assisting.

The event will take the form of a fashion show-auction--rummage sale.

The event will be held Oct. 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the Linda Mar School in Pacifica.

The models parading new and next-to-new fashions will be members Margaret Gatwood, Joan McClellan, Joanne Geertsema, Donna Drew, Della D'Ettel, Audrey Manabe and Lorraine Donner.

In addition to the fashion show, there will be a silent auction table and rummage tables.

The public is invited to attend and a $1 donation allows admission, refreshments and door awards.

Tickets may be obtained from Xi Lambda Phi members and will be sold also at the door. Proceeds from the event will be ear-marked for the chapter's annual service project in the form of a gift to the community.

Strings at Periwinkle Music Program

Music at the Gallery will feature a string trio by Beethoven, string quartet by Charles Ives and a quintet by Brahms on Sunday, Oct. 13 at 3 p.m.

The San Mateo County Chamber Music Society's "Artists-in-residence" will perform at Periwinkle Art Gallery 1227 Danmann, Pedro Point, Pacifica.

Featured artists are Helen Beyer, first violin, M. Ruth Klipfel, second violin, Erwin Gordon, viola, Jessica Schackne, cello, and Sylvia Kamin, piano.

First violinist, Helen Beyer, musical director of the San Mateo County Chamber Music Society, graduated from San Francisco State College and received her MA from Teachers College, Columbia University. She has played with the Griller String Quartet, the Alsa Trio and established the Beyer String Quartet and Trio.

Second violinist, Ruth Klipfel, received scholarships while attending Pomona College from which she graduated with highest honors in Music History. She received her master's degree from the Claremont Graduate School in Music History and Applied Music. She also attended Columbia University and University of Southern California. Ms. Klipfel has performed with the Long Beach "Trio Classique" and soloed with the Long Beach Symphony. She presently teaches chamber music at Simpson College in San Francisco.

Violist Erwin Gordon took his advanced training in viola, chamber music and conducting under William F. Zech, a pupil of Joseph Joachim. This was followed by intensive work in the art and performance of chamber music with the Griller String Quartet. Dr. Gordon has taught chamber music at every level of instruction. He has published research findings in the field of music education and been a consultant to the United States Office of Education in the fields of music and other fine arts.

Cellist Jessica Schackne graduated from Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. While attending, she performed with the Dayton Philharmonic. She received her MA from Cleveland Institute of Music. Ms. Schackne studied chamber music with the principles of the Cleveland Symphony. She teaches cello and piano at the Peninsula Conservatory of Music, Burlingame.

Pianist Sylvia Kamin is a graduate of the University of Toronto. She received her musical training at the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto, the Juilliard Graduate School, Cornell University and Mills College.

Donations of $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for students and $1 under 12 are requested.

A Busy October for Catholic Service Group

The members of the Catholic Social Service Auxiliary of San Mateo County have planned a busy October.

Immediately after the success of their fashion show on Sept. 5, another fund-raising event was planned for Oct. 16, an early morning fashion show presented by Levy Bros. in their San Mateo Store.

All members and friends of the Auxiliary are urged to be at the 8:30 a.m. show where a continental breakfast will be served.

The Auxiliary will receive a donation from Levy Bros. in proportion to the number attending in the Auxiliary's name.

The regular meeting will be held on Oct. 23, at St. Timothy's in San Mateo.

The ladies of St. Timothy's and St. Matthew's will provide the luncheon. Co-chairmen of the event are Mrs. Eugene Longinotti of Hillsborough and Mrs. John Loretz of San Mateo. The program will consist of a talk on "Travel" by George Morello of the George Morello Travel Agency of San Mateo.

There will be an exciting presentation and discussion of the Jan. 11, 1975 Caribbean Cruise on the Norwegian Caribbean Lines, sponsored by the Catholic Social Service Auxiliary membership.

Mrs. George Littlejohn of San Mateo has announced plans are being formulated by a sizeable group of members — including the winners of the grand prize at the September show — Mr. and Mrs. William Neve of San Carlos.

Funds raised by the Auxiliary are for the support of the Catholic Social Service Agency — which is a member agency of the United Bay Area Crusade.

Harvest Moon Festival Planned at Dolorosa

Pre-Sale tickets are being sold for the Mater Dolorosa Parish Festival, Oct. 27.

Co-chairmen for the ticket sales will be Mrs. Richard Jenkins and Mrs. Robert Peterson. They will be assisted by the eighth grade girls from the Mater Dolorosa school.

The chairmen said the tickets will be sold, during the prior sale only, for reduced price.

"By purchasing their tickets ahead of time, children will be able to take part in many more of the rides that the Festival will offer," said Mrs. Jenkins.

"We hope to encourage as many children as well as adults in the community to take part in the fun and at the same time help support a worth while project," added Mrs. Peterson

For further information on where the pre-sale tickets will be sold, contact Mater Dolorosa Church in South San Francisco.

Biggest Grand National Purses

Tickets for the 1974 Grand National have gone on sale.

The richest purses and biggest shows in the 30-year history of the Western classic are among this year's features. The combination rodeo, livestock competition and horse show opens at the Cow Palace Oct. 25, and closes Nov. 3.

Regular ticket prices range from $2.50 to $5.50. Box seats are offered at $6.50, and half-price junior-senior matinees for those under 16 or over 60 will be presented Oct. 27 and Nov. 2.

On family discount night, Oct. 28, $10 will admit a family of four. Extra seats for youngsters can be purchased for $1 each.

Tickets are available at the Cow Palace, all Ticketron and Bay Area Seating Service outlets, all Macy's stores, the Downtown Center Box Office, Neil Thrams at Breuner's, and at all Bay Area agencies.

The rodeo part of the show will pit the nation's top cowboys against each other for $80,000 in prize money.

There are more than 2,500 entries in the Grand National's horse show, recognized by horsemen as the year's most prestigious competition.

Aristocratic beef, sheep and swine will show off in the West's biggest, richest livestock showcase. Judging begins every Grand National day at 7 a.m.

Beautifully-matched eight-horse teams competing in intricate driving and work maneuvers will be a special attraction at this year's Grand National. Competing for a $10,000 first prize will be teams of Clydesdales, Percherons and Belgians hitched to lavishly decorated work wagons.

All setas will be reserved.

Terra Nova's Two New Additions

SANDY BRYANT
Campus Correspondent

Terra Nova High School's latest additions are campus aides.

Consisting of a two person team, their job is to see that the halls are kept empty during class and the bathrooms free of smokers or would-be vandals.

Mrs. Charlene Harris, the female half of the team, enjoys her work. A one time para-professional, Mrs. Harris tutored freshman and a few sophomores in English at Terra Nova. When she is not at Terra Nova, she performs the duties of housewife and mother.

Mike Rainsford, the male half of the team, resigned, because of a new job. A replacement for him is sought.

The team works from 11 to 2:45 p.m. They are paid on a 1-5 scale, based on years of service, and as Mrs. Harris states, "You get all the exercise you need."

You'll Get More Than a Pat on the Back

Good News for Women Seeking Credit

By MICHELLE CARTER

Brilliant orange, pink and white posters have been distributed to the employees of the J.C. Penney company suggesting that they give women credit — not just a pat on the back, but the buying power kind of credit that comes in the form of a little plastic card.

Sounds terribly non-revolutionary. Everyone knows that women have been wielding the credit cards for years in our society, but what many of them don't know or fail to recognize is that the credit card is usually not their possession. It belongs to their husbands.

It's the man's name who appears on the face of the card, and it's the man of the family who is responsible for the debt incurred by the use of the card. And, not incidentally, it's usually only his income that is considered in granting or denying the card.

This chauvinistic credit policy causes no irreparable damage to married women — except perhaps to their psyche and sense of personal identity. But it has done considerable damage to single, divorced, widowed and separated women who don't have a man's name to put on their credit cards — or who, just for principle's sake, don't care to put a man's name on theirs.

The Texaco Oil Company made consumer news recently when a Sacramento woman applied twice for a credit card from Texaco. She used identical financial information on both applications, but on one she put her own name and on the other, she put a masculinized form of her own name.

Just as she expected, Texaco issued the card to her male counterpart and denied one to her — on the basis of identical information.

It's just this sort of sexist discrimination that Penney's has set out to eliminate with its new policy of equal treatment. As explained at a recent news conference by Donnell Davis, regional credit manager for Penney's, "Penney's can now honestly claim, perhaps not uniquely, that it treats women and alike in granting them credit. Its sole criteria are and will continue to be the ability and willingness of the applicant to pay for the credit extended . . ."

Davis admits that Penney's didn't come by its enlightened attitude by act of God. He considers the policy a reflection "of the social revolution aimed at obtaining equal opportunity for women."

In August, 1972, Penney's credit managers began seeking the opinions of women on credit, and they heard that their entire credit application was off-base starting with the first line.

"Right off the bat the application asked for the name of the person to whom the credit card was to be issued, and that question made it clear the husband's name was to be entered if the applicant was a married woman."

The Penney's people also heard objections to the space for "wife's first name." Instead the creditor should have asked simply for the name of the spouse.

They were also told that married women wanted accounts in their own names and single women "vehemently objected to having their account automatically put in their husband's name once they married."

The result of such consciousness-raising is a credit application at Penney's that asks no questions about sex or marital status. It also permits an account to be opened in any one's name as long as the name isn't fraudulent. Nor does it require one spouse to disclose the other's income, unless he or she chooses to do so.

Davis admits that it wasn't sheer humanitarianism that prompted such a progressive credit policy. According to him, the "greatest trigger for these reforms" was the Federal Consumer Credit Protection Act.

An in-depth study, that the act provided for, established that women make up 40 per cent of the total work force, and 44 per cent of all married women work. It also noted that 90 per cent of the buying decisions in a family are made by women.

"With this in mind, any retailer who fails to recognize the importance of women to the success of its merchandising efforts is not only flying in the face of the ongoing social revolutions, but also is showing unrealistic business sense," Davis said.

The study commission also pinpoints five areas where women have trouble obtaining credit.

1. "Single women have more trouble obtaining credit than single men . . . although single women are considered as good or better risks than single men.

2. "Creditors generally require a woman who marries to reapply for credit, usually in their husband's name, although men who marry are not similarly treated.

3. "Creditors are often unwilling to extend credit to a married woman in her own name.

4. "Creditors often refuse to count the wife's income when a couple applies for credit.

5. "Women who are divorced, widowed or separated have trouble reestablishing credit because a prior account may have been in the husband's name."

Davis pointed out that government is making itself known on this issue, and that 32 states already have civil rights legislation on the books on the equality of the availability of credit.

He noted that two bills have passed the California Legislature dealing with this subject. Assemblyman Henry A. Waxman's bill (AB 312) prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex in extending credit, and Senator Albert Song's bill (SB 2163) requires "a credit grantor, after approving a woman's credit account application, to issue her credit card in her single, married or maiden name," whichever she requests.

In Congress, Rep. Eleanor Sullivan (D-Mo.) is sponsoring the Equal Credit Opportunity Act (H.R. 14856) which would prohibit discrimination in the extension of credit on the basis of sex, marital status and race.

Davis concluded that this new policy "is really not a policy about women and credit, but about credit in general."

Pacifica Fishing Pier Brings Headaches

What happens to a 68-year-old neighborhood when a modern, 1,050-foot fishing pier is built there, attracting fishermen from throughout the Bay Area?

Residents of the west Sharp Park area of Pacifica claim that all kinds of things happen, none of them pleasant.

Cars park in driveways, walls are knocked down and litter is strewn all over. One woman complained that she found a bag with dead sharks stashed carefully in her yard.

Worst of all, however, are the cars, parked in every conceivable space, the residents say.

The problem of parking and traffic in Sharp Park — which was an independent village for a half-century before the city's incorporation—was aired at a special study session of the Pacifica City Council Wednesday night. Councilmen considered staff reports from the Planning Division and the Police Department, as well as the Sharp Park Improvement Council.

City staff members discussed the consequences of many of the various plans proposed, but indicated more study is needed before they can make firm recommendations.

Councilmen asked the staff to return recommendations in 60 to 90 days. To confer are representatives of the police, engineering and planning offices.

The planners, also studying land use in west Sharp Park, are expected to make the final recommendation, based to some extent on traffic and engineering considerations.

Residents of west Sharp Park urged action be taken soon, since the pier has been open since November, 1973, and the problems are growingh.

The city has allocated $100,000 to buy a parking lot.

The Sharp Park Improvement Council prefers:

• One-way traffic on Beach Boulevard to release space near the sewer plant — where the street widens — for diagonal parking.

• Making Clarendon and Paloma avenues, the southern and northern entrances to the beach area, into one-way between Palmetto and the beach.

• Scattered vacant lots on Palmetto — the north-south business street — developed for parking. These lots, a block from the beach, would serve both the businesses and the beach.

However, Sharp Park residents have said they will fight proposals to use vacant lots in resident blocks for parking. Such blocks must be kept strictly residential, they insisted.

Planner Jim Miller, on the other hand, noted that the use of individual lots for parking probably would be more asthetic than the large, vacant area south of the sewer plant.

Police Officer Michael J. Blagrove discussed the consequences of angle and parallel parking, or a combination, as well as big parking lots versus small parking lots.

The councilmen directed Blagrove, Miller and engineer Kevin Roberts to study the problem.

Firm Seeks Former Employe

A $1,000 award has been offered by the Paragon Wax and Refining Co., South San Francisco, for information leading to the location and arrest of its former bookkeeper, Rose Hernandez, 42.

The firm complained to police that during September, 1973, Mrs. Hernandez had issued company checks to herself totaling $46,208, cashed the checks and fled. Police said that she is believed to have left with a company truck driver, who is not wanted by police. She had resided at 245 Willow Ave., South San Francisco.

South San Francisco police have obtained a warrant for her arrest and the Federal Bureau of Investigation has obtained a warrant for unlawful flight. Bail on these two warrants totals $100,000.

Detective Miff Singleton asked that any information concerning the fugitive be directed to him, at the police department. All information will be held in strict confidence, he said.

Miss Hernandez is described as five-feet-two, 120 pounds, with brown eyes and brown hair.

Police said the embezzlement was discovered when the firm's owners were preparing their records for the third quarter payroll. The bank informed them several checks had been issued, ranging from $3300 to $11,100.

SSF Man Hurt in Crash

George Parado, 19, of 234 La Monte Lane, South San Francisco, was taken to Chope Community Hospital with severe facial lacerations suffered when his face went through the windshield of the car in which he was riding hit a redwood tree Thursday afternoon on Portola State Park Road, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The driver of the car, Christman Willis, 20, of 15 Escayno Drive, South San Francisco, told Officer Donald F. Woods that he dropped a cigarette on his lap, and when he reached for it he apparently hit the accelator pedal and smashed into the tree.

Art and Teen Faire Planned

Pacific Manor School, 411 Oceana Blvd., Pacifica, will hold its third annual art and teen faire Oct. 19 from 11:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. in the school's multi-purpose room.

Arts and crafts will be featured with teen games, food and drinks.

The public is invited to attend.

Stickney's Bakery For All Occasions

Over 200 different kinds of bakery goods are prepared daily in Adrian Stickney's Bakery in Redwood City. Not only is the delicious confection sold in all his restaurants to take home, but diners order a cut of the pies or cakes for dessert. Real specialties are the whipped cream and fresh fruit pies, says Stickney . . . George Green, new owner of the Gold Platter in San Carlos, is now offering mini or regular dinners, with steaks and Continental dinners being the feature. You'll also find five different private party rooms to accommodate 20 to 175 persons . . . The 99 cent Spaghetti Dinner featured on Monday nights at the Holiday Inn, Belmont, is a real football fan attraction. Joe DeDio, general manager, reports that he will continue to serve the Monday night NFL special throughout the season . . . If you have a birthday or anniversary celebration coming up, Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City is an unbeatable dining place to commemorate. There are three dining areas (the Fireplace Room, the Red Room and the Bonnie Dee) which can accommodate small gatherings. The food, service and atmosphere are most impressive . . . Vladimir Tupy, general manager of all the North California Roos Atkins World Travel Bureaus, held a managers luncheon meeting at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel in San Mateo . . . Ed Murphy and Tom Chagis offer over 40 different sandwiches at their Christopher's in downtown San Mateo, plus daily hot plates. And if you're looking for a good place to have breakfast, you'll find Christopher's fills the bill. Breakfast items are served from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m.

Hugo's Market New Dining Room Attraction

Accolades to the Hyatt Corporation for the recent debut of Hugo's Market dining room at Hyatt House Burlingame. When entering the new room, hotel regulars are in awe at its accomplishment in design. Besides a new decor, there's a new menu which lists numerous entrees and dinner extras. See for yourself by dining here this weekend . . . No matter what the season, the short, scenic trek to Rockaway Beach in Pacifica is always a rewarding experience. Nick Gust's three restaurants, The Moonraker, Nick's and Captain Charles, are located just yards from a picturesque beach which offers "oceans" of nautical viewing. The Moonraker affords Continental cuisine for gourmet tastes; Nick's features menus for breakfast, luncheon and dinner, plus dancing Wednesdays through Sundays to the music of the Steve Romano Combo. Captain Charles caters to the fanciers of particular fish dishes . . . The Luciano Special Sandwich is a popular mid-day attraction at Oliver's in South San Francisco. It's a combination of salami, Swiss cheese, ham and a special dressing on the sandwich, served with French fries.

Finocchio's D'Castro Hit With Miranda Bit

One of the smash hits in the colorful show at Finocchio's is Bobby D'Castro's take-off of the former Brazilian star Carmen Miranda. He struts through his numbers wearing a three-foot high chapeaux loaded with bananas and other vegetables, a la Miranda . . . If you like jazz, Joe Burton, who presides at the piano in the Surf Room at Pacifica's Sea Bowl on Friday and Saturday nights, and Sunday afternoons from 4 to 8 p.m., will have you joining the toe tapping and hand clapping . . . Vincenzo's, ... a top drawer seafood restaurant in Colma, is now open on Mondays to serve their luncheon specials and dinner features. On Tuesdays and Thursdays, you can enjoy "Fashions with Becky" during the luncheon hour . . . Grand Hotel has returned to the Golden Rooster Lounge of the Rodeway Inn, South San Francisco. Having drawn so well during a previous gig here, General Manager Erik Pedersen was delighted to sign up the group to another contract. Hie on down to this lively hotel situated on Airport Row and see why they have so much to "crow" about . . . "Polynesian Delight" is just one of the recent menu additions at The Castaway, Coyote Point. Already a big favorite with the regulars, the dish consists of tender Medallions of Filet — and it is so-o-o good.

Phil Lehr's Steakery For Dinner Parties

Guy Cherney, director of Vidal Sassoon's School of Cosmetology, and song stylist Dee Parker hosted a dinner party and meeting for leading hair stylists in the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery, in downtown San Francisco . . . Only the finest ingredients go into the making of pizzas at Romano's Italian restaurant, located in picturesque Pacifica (Rockaway Beach). Enrico Romano's small, medium and extra large specialties include plain cheese, linguica, salami, beef and onions, pepperoni, ham, anchovie, and many others to stimulate your appetites. Italian specialties include Chicken Cacciatora, Veal Scallopini with mushrooms, plus fish and steak from the charcoal broiler . . . The entertainment theme for Dominique's Supper Club at Ormsby House Hotel in Carson City is danceable music, and Bill Page and his fellow musicians have page after page of toe-tapping music for listening and dancing . . . Talented Sonny King brings his own singing style and comedy to the popular Silver Dollar Show Lounge at Harolds Club with nightly shows at 10, 12 and 2. . . . Busy Hof's Brau is one of Nine Garden Restaurants located on the lower level of Tanforan Park Shopping Center, in San Bruno. Morris Halberg, manager of Hof's Brau, features various hot plates which include Roast Beef, Turkey, Corned Beef and Ham, and the price is a reasonable $1.89. You'll also find different low-priced specials featured daily, plus a wide range of beverages, including wine and imported beer. Food to take out.

Controversial Interstate 380 Remains on Drawing Boards

By BOB PETERSON

The most controversial freeway in North San Mateo County history, if not the entire county, still sits on the drawing board awaiting approval.

It's not just any freeway. This extension of Interstate 380 from San Bruno's Crestmoor Canyon to Pacifica's coast has had more politicians doing flip-flops than Aunt Jemima's pancakes.

The San Bruno City Council's Sept. 23 rejection of the California Department of Transportation (CALTRANS) proposal left the state agency fumbling for words to express its reaction.

At an earlier CALTRANS freeway extension design hearing at San Bruno's Skyline College CALTRANS Deputy District Director Burch Bachtold had told a gathering, that began 600 strong, that if either San Bruno or Pacifica's Council rejected the proposal the extension probably would not be built.

That line has since been altered. A different version was spelled out in a Sept. 20 letter from Bachtold to San Bruno City Manager Gerald Minford, in response to the then hypothetical question of what would happen if San Bruno went against the proposal:

"If, for example, San Bruno should officially withdraw its support of the project while Pacifica continues to favor the freeway, the matter would become quite complicated and all factors affecting these decisions would have to be evaluated in detail.

"We would hope such a situation would not develop and that a uniform position one way or the other will be established by both cities."

"If this is not possible, construction could conceivably proceed . . ."

That letter was dated Sept. 20, a Friday before the Monday council meeting at which the proposal was rejected. But it did not arrive at City Hall until after the action was taken.

This reporter had contacted CALTRANS officials the Tuesday morning after the meeting for reaction and was told that a letter had been drafted in response to Minford's query, and that it had to be approved by Bachtold before it would be sent out. No one wanted to comment on Bachtold's earlier remarks that the project probably would cease.

The San Bruno council could have waited – and some still contend should have — for a vote of the people. That certainly would have made its task easier.

Two factors entered in the decision. The council members had a duty to their constitutents. They also had an existing freeway agreement. Right now, the members of the San Bruno council are about as popular with certain Pacificans and South San Franciscans (and probably those with CALTRANS) as a tidal wave in mid-July, yet, all they've heard for months from the public is anti-freeway extension sentiment.

Calling an election, from hindsight, would appear to have been an exercise in futility, and a waste of taxpayers' money. It was not an easy decision for the council.

News Analysis

The only vote any city council can go by is a vote of its own constituency. The freeway routing opponents in San Bruno included all homeowner groups in the area, the school board trustees and the directors of the Chamber of Commerce. Few politicians could win a race facing that kind of opposition.

All the opposition is not coming from San Bruno, although it may seem like it. At that recent CALTRANS design hearing, a good many in the audience were from Pacifica, and boos came from them for the three Pacifica council members promoting the extension. A recall was even being discussed over the issue in that city.

What the proponents of the extension like best is that the road would provide a much-needed (to which no one disagrees) east-west lateral. The issue got down to one of ecology, as the so-called "no-growth" (a label to which they object) advocates began matching wits with CALTRANS' top experts. They appeared always to keep CALTRANS against the ropes. They never underestimated (and still don't) the power of the state agency.

CALTRANS presented this proposal with its characteristic perseverance and efficiency. When the project was initially stopped, for lack of an Environmental Impact Statement, by a Sierra Club lawsuit, CALTRANS' response was 1½ inches thick. There never was a public sour note or hysterical gesture.

That kind of performance was expected. The only solution for the anti-freeway group became obvious — stop it at the city level. The word STOP (for Sane Transportation on the Peninsula) became their battle cry.

Yet, even for them, the action of the San Bruno council was amazing and unexpected. With its many meetings covering the subject, amid cries and pleas to take a stand, the council had held firm.

And the San Bruno council is not known for flighty actions. In North County council circles, that body shines as the group most level-headed, steady and consistent. They hear the screams, but they also listen to the quiet ones at the council meetings.

With their action, the San Bruno council, albeit unintentionally went to bat for environmentalists up and down the state. They said "Whoa! Wait a minute" to what to what used to be accepted procedure. That is, in the case of CALTRANS, begin a freeway and if no one argues too loudly, don't sweat it, because those who don't yell must be for it. The action by the council put the issue out openly on the table.

Flu Shots to Combat New Strain

Flu shots being administered to San Mateo County's senior citizens contain immunization against the new deadly flu strain known as Port Chalmers Type A which is expected to hit much of the United States this year.

Dr. James M. Bodie, director of the Health Division of the County Department of Health and Welfare, said there is no way of knowing how hard, or even if, the new type flu will hit San Mateo County.

"Influenza is unpredictable," Bodie stated. "It may skip this year and appear next year, but we'll get it sooner or later."

The National Center for Disease Control issued the forecast that the Port Chalmers Type A strain will hit much of the United States this winter. The new strain, initially isolated last year in New Zealand, is reportedly similar to the killer London flu, which swept the United States in 1972 and early 1973. The death rate reached 1,000 a week at the outbreak's peak during February 1973.

Bodie said that those especially susceptible to the new Port Chalmers flu are the elderly and the dehabilitated, primarily persons with heart and lung ailments.

Fortunately, the health director reported, the flu vaccine being offered through county clinics and nursing homes to the county's senior citizens this fall contains the new Port Chalmers strain and will provide immunization for the Type A flu.

Flower Show Set At Tanforan

Artistic arrangements, cut and potted specimens, and holiday decorations will be features of the third annual Winners Circle Flower Show Oct. 17 through 20 at the Tanforan Park Shopping Center.

"Holidays In the Park" is the theme of this year's event which will include exhibits by Bay-Ocean District Garden Clubs and plant societies. Junior garden club members in the district and elsewhere also will have displays.

Mrs. George Doernhoefer, Mrs. Richard Thomas and Mrs. Jake Ventrello are sharing chairmanship of the show. It is open to the public without charge.

Top awards will include best of show in the artistic division, an award of horticulture excellence in the potted plant division, an award of merit for the best cut specimen, and a creativity award in the holiday decorations division.

Sweepstakes also will be given in the artistic, potted plant and decorations divisions.

In the junior division, awards will be presented for the best display; runners-up will merit rosette ribbons.

Concurrent with the show, the Tanforan Shopping Center will be presenting its own flower display on the mall and in the foyers.

This Weeks Suggestion For THE PERFECT HOST

Sebastiani Zinfandel Wine, 5th

A beef chuck roast such as those that are featured this week would be in excellent company with a bottle of Sebastiani Zinfandel Wine. This is a dry red wine that is refreshingly light. It has a berry-like bouquet and a "bramble" flavor that may remind you of wild blackberries. Zinfandel is at its best when served at room temperature.

Try this fine wine at $2.29 a fifth.

Home Society Shapes Activities

An open meeting was held Oct. 3, 10 a.m., at the home of Mrs. James Konig, Hillsborough, for members of Crystal Springs Chapter, Children's Home Society and guests.

Mrs. Cal Pierce, Millbrae, corresponding scretary, sent invitations to guests and prospective new members interested in the society's purpose and activities.

Mrs. Robert Mills, Burlingame, is chairman of memberships and Mrs. Edward Turdici, Millbrae, directs hospitality.

Mrs. Fralley Lane of Burlingame, president, presided over the meeting, with discussion of final plans for the Great Boutique, Nov. 9 and 10 at Nueva Day School, Hillsborough. Mrs. William Haynes, San Mateo, is chairman for this event.

Also plans were made for a silent auction and the Christmas brunch in December for members and guests and the annual Santa visit to children at their home or parties or organizational parties of adults, Mrs. S. E. Carlson, Millbrae and Mrs. John Parry, Hillsborough, are co-chairwoman for Santa's Visit.

Announcement was made that Mrs. Kohn Brucato, Millbrae, has been appointed council represesentative chairman. The President has appointed Mrs. William Haynes, first vice president, and Mrs. Robert Mills, second vice president, to attend the Children's Home Society Convention Oct. 10 - 11 at Del Monte Lodge, Monterey.

In September, Crystal Springs Chapter participated in the Stork Express, under the direct services chairman, Mrs. John Carter of Millbrae.

The Golden Gate District of the Society placed a total of 69 children in adoptive homes during the past fiscal year. Children's Home Society offers complete adoptive services.

During the past year there has been an increase in the number of children provided care in the Foster Care Program, a newer service in addition to adoptive servicees for married or single parents needing counseling and temporary assistance.

Both of these services assure children of permanent and stable homes. An Intercounty Adoption Program is also in operation, with the first child to be placed from overseas in the next few months.

San Mateo Christian Women's Club Schedules Western Program

The San Mateo Christian Women's Club is going western for its annual guest night program and dinner to be held on Oct. 14 at 7 p.m., at the Black Angus Restaurant, 477 Ninth Ave., San Mateo.

Christian Women's Club is a non-denominationl organization open to all who would enjoy an evening of fun, entertainment and spiritual refreshment.

Don Poston, sportsman and collector, will present his collection of rare silver spurs from around the world, including the "Singing Spurs" from Portugal.

Poston and his wife, Lorna, and son live aboard one of their two boats berthed at Oyster Point Yacht Harbor. Poston is an officer with the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla No. 19 out of Coyote Point.

David Flagg, at home on the concert stage as well as the speaker's platform, will offer both word and song.

Besides his professional musical status of soloist and recording artist, Flagg is also an Alameda County probation officer, serving in the Juvenile Traffic Court Division as a judge and counselor.

Chairmen for the event: Chairwoman: Mrs. Frank W. Hooper of Burlingame; hostess and co-hostess, Mrs. Stan Pierce and Mrs. Harold Brown of San Mateo; decorations, Mrs. Homer Crebs, San Carlos; music chairman, Mrs. Cindy Halby, San Mateo; prizes and suprirses, Mrs. Louis Porter, Belmont, Mrs. Grover Cleveland, San Mateo, and Mrs. Gerald J. Engelhaupt, San Bruno; tickets, Mrs. Oris Latta, Burlingame. Tickets will be $6.95 each, tax and tip included.

For reservations phone Mrs. Latta (697-0196) or write 1701 Albermarle Way, Burlingame, California 94010. Ticket reservation deadline is Oct. 9th.

McQuade Benefit Tonight

The Association of Catholic Newsmen will hold its 15th annual wine and cheese tasting to benefit the Edward V. McQuade Awards for social justice in reporting today.

Oakland's nationally historic Paramount Theatre will be the scene of the event, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

The recently restored movie palace at 20th and Broadway, just a few steps from the 19th Street BART station, has been acclaimed one of America's finest examples of art-deco typical of the 1930's. It is the home of the Oakland Symphony.

Brother Timothy, cellarmaster of Christian Brothers Winery in the Napa Valley, will conduct the wine tasting. Several Rouge et Noir cheese made from centuries old Normandy recipes will be available for sampling. The donation is $2.50 per person. Tickets are available at the door.

Paul W. Girard, president of the Association of Catholic Newsmen, said several hundred door prizes will be given away at the event, including the free use of a brand new Ford for a week; dinners at fine restaurants; records; books; silver trays and tickets to Bay Area athletic events.

The Edward V. McQuade Awards, given in the spring of each year for the past 25 years, benefit from the annual wine and cheese tasting. They are often referred to as the "Pulitzer Prizes of Northern California." The awards are given to professional journalists who have written within the meaning of The Sermon on The Mount.

McQuade, at the time of his death 25 years ago, had been city editor of both the San Francisco Examiner and Chronicle and was the first president of the ACN.

Oct. Meeting For Westlake Women Slated

The Westlake Catholic Women of Our Lady of Mercy parish will hold their meeting in the church hall, Oct. 14, immediately following 8 p.m. devotions to Our Lady of Perpetual Help.

Reports will be given on "Luncheon is Served," "Italian Night," and tickets for "Day at the Races" will be on sale.

Sister Veronica, principal of Our Lady of Mercy School, will comment on the school's curriculum.

Mrs. Robert Drucker, hospitality chairwoman, announced her hostesses for the evening will be Mmes: Peter Migale, Sal Parise, Peter Bistolfi, and John Kachur.

There will be a free membership drawing for paid-up members, and the sweets booth will have a raffle.

Crowd Enjoyed 'Madam Butterfly'

In 1904, the Milanese audience hooted "Madama Butterfly" off the La Scala stage. This is now commonly used as an example of "know nothingism."

But perhaps we should take a more charitable view of the Milanese. These first reactions indicate an audience that knew opera, that felt strongly about opera and was willing to express its opinions.

RENATA SCOTTO

In 1904 "Madama Butterfly," with its use of Wagnerian leitmotif and Debussian chord changes, was a radical opera. Today, it is part of our everyday musical vocabulary; it is the essence of musical orthodoxy. And, it is greeted with joy by our San Francisco traditionalist audiences, just as it was hooted at by the traditionalist Milanese.

The opening production of the Puccini favorite on Wednesday received a standing ovation. It did not deserve it. It was a dull and somewhat comical performance.

What made it so good also gave it a curious imbalance: soprano Renata Scotto, making her first local operatic appearance. She is a singer of enormous power, of large and dramatic sound. When she is singing, you can forget everything and everyone else on stage. An imposing delivery, a full and controlled tone, a performer who knows what she wants and demands attention from all quarters, she is an impressive performer even though she is almost the opposite of what one expects of the demure, heartbroken and vulnerable ex-geisha girl, Cio Cio San.

At times she sounded as if she were singing "Turandot" rather than the abandoned and grief-stricken Japanese plaything of a thoughtless and arrogant lieutenant in the American Navy. One's sympathies are always with the distraught victim of this loveless affair in which an adorable child is conceived, but Miss Scotto looks psychologically and physically able to get easy revenge. She quite frankly looks and acts capable of sticking the knife into lustreless Pinkerton instead of committing harakiri and it seems silly, in view of her aggressiveness in the first two acts, not to do so.

If the visual aspects don't enable one to accept this "Butterfly" with total confidence, one can always close one's eyes and listen. The music is certainly some of Puccini's most lyrically beautiful and is a joy to hear under almost any conditions. But Scotto's voice is so powerful, so rich in expression (from the bombastic and perfectly placed high range to the whispered pianissimo of the most tender passages) that one is compelled to stare at where so glorious a sound is emanating from and, in so doing, destroy all the illusion of the Japanese picturesqueness of the stylized staging.

It would be a shame not to sing again on Oct. 18. However, Pilar Lorengar takes over the role in subsequent performances on Nov. 23, 27 and 30.

Giorgio Merighi has a clear, sure tenor voice in the unsympathetic role of Lt. Pinkerton. The character is not a villain, just unfeeling and weak. And because Merighi lacks the military bearing and authority that might give the role more depth, it is doubly overshadowed by the more striking figure of Miss Scotto.

Judith Forst has a voice that blends nicely in the timeless duets between Suzuki and Cio Cio San but she, too, was pushed aside, both figuratively and physically by the more powerful personality of Miss Scotto who has made it clear in interviews that she knows how she wants to portray the role and won't countenance anyone standing in her way of doing it, namely with all stops pulled out, at her tempo, volume and dramatic realization.

This makes for a very uneven production. But what it lacks in delicacy and melodramatic empathy, it makes up for in candor and vitality. Scotto is a powerhouse soprano in all ranges and one is all but bowled over by her command of the stage. Again, this is at some loss of unity and ensemble playing.

Maestro Kurt Herbert Adler took charge of the orchestra and conducted with great warmth and compassion. It seemed a much slower "Butterfly" than when we heard it in 1971 with Polish soprano Teresa Kubiak in the well-studied and mannered leading role. But Adler and Scotto were of one mind on its pace and essential musical heartbeat so the marriage there was faultlessly conceived.

The production by director Ghita Hager and designer Toni Businger is the same as we've seen before. All the oriental trappings are there but the pretense at Japanese mannerisms and traditional gestures was given only a quick pass.

Julian Patrick as Sharpless also was caught in a web of histrionics that was excessive, rather than sympathetic. Everyone but Miss Scotto was colorless in the wake of her overwhelming melodramatic portrayal.

THE POST'S SPORTS

Le Paeini

Lodigiani

(Second of two Parts)

Note: Last week Chicago White Sox scout Dario Lodigiani talked about his background in baseball, today's lack of super stars and one of the last of them — Mickey Mantle.)

It was fabulous players like Mantle, big and fast, which helped turn the heads of major league scouts toward the six-plus footers.

Lodigiani, only 5-8 himself, may be one of the few scouts who will give a "little guy" a tumble.

"I've always maintained," he says, "that if you're good enough, you're big enough."

The big priority today, regardless of size, is pitching.

"Things run in cycles," says Lodigiani. "In the '30s and '40s, every club had good pitchers, even the bad clubs. But in the last four or five years there has been such a shortage of quality pitchers that it looks like it might become a permanent shortage. Everybody's trying to trade for pitchers. In order to get a front liner, though, you have to give up too much. So the best way is to develop your own. This past draft, eight of the Sox's first 10 picks were pitchers. And that's the trend throughout baseball.

"Our club, in the past, was always sort of conservative in our draft picks. We usually tended to go for the position players, because the risk wasn't as great for injury. Pitchers' arm pretty fragile things. We just weren't prepared to make big investments for potential sore arms. Our philosophy was to make our investments in position players, who are generally more durable, and then trade for established pitchers later."

The discussion of pitching always brings up Lodigiani's pet peeve: the pitcher with a good fastball who insists on throwing junk.

"WHY, BOB FELLER had the best curve in baseball when he was 19, but he hardly ever used it for the first 10 years of his career. He didn't need it.

"I saw Bob recently, and he's arguing with me about how the curve is so important, and look what it did for him, especially later in his career. So I asked Bob whether his record was better when he used practically nothing but fastballs, or when he used the curve a lot after he had lost a foot or two off his fast one. That ended the discussion.

"That's one of Ron Bryant's big problems. He has a good fastball and he doesn't use it enough.

"Ask any hitter, even the great ones, what the toughest pitch to hit is, and they'll all tell you, 'A real good fastball.'

"The best illustration of this I know is the time that Lefty O'Droul had to leave the Seals for a few days on some baseball business, and he leaves me and Del Young, his first base coach, in charge of the team while he's gone.

" 'You guys are always telling me what to do,' he says, 'So you run the club and see what you can do with it.'

"That night Young and I and our trainer, Leo Hughes, are out to dinner, and we start discussing Con Dempsey, a young right hander out of USF (Note: now a junior high school teacher in San Francisco and a Daly City resident) who's pitching the next day, and has a real good, live fastball. Now, Con was a good kid, but he had a theory about everything. You'd ask him a simple question and he'd give you a half hour lecture. One of his theories was that he should throw a lot of breaking pitches and changes, and just spot the fast one.

"So that night at dinner we decide that since we're in third place late in the season, anyway, with no chance of rising or getting lower in the standings, that we're going to tell Con that O'Droul left orders for Con not to throw anything but fastballs except on no ball, two strike waste pitches.

"THE NEXT DAY in the clubhouse we give Con the story, and right away he starts on one of his lectures, and we tell him, look, that's Lefty's orders. We tell Con if he wants to get fined, go ahead and do what he wants to do. Well, if there is one thing Dempsey doesn't want, it's to get fined, so he goes out there that day and throws nothing but heat, except for an occasional waste curve, and he fires a one-hitter."

As a scout, a native San Franciscan and a former Oakland player, Lodigiani is saddened over the demise of San Francisco and Oakland as major suppliers of talent to the big leagues.

"San Francisco was always a hot bed for baseball. At one time not too many years ago, there were more kids in the majors that came out of Oakland and San Francisco than any two cities in the United States. But now both cities have lost their programs. Sacramento has some great baseball programs for kids now. And there is a lot of enthusiasm on the Peninsula. But people who are really interested in working with kids just don't exist anymore in San Francisco and Oakland; at least, not like they used to.

"For example, the only guy in San Francisco who's still really interested in young players is Dante Benedetti, the USF coach. Just a fantastic man. Years ago, there used to be a lot of guys like him.

"Now, you go to Funston, or Big Rec, you could set a bomb off on the baseball diamonds and not wound anybody."

And if the mad bomber did manage to wound a player, odds are the kid wouldn't play hurt.

Oceana Teacher Seeks Title

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Oceana High School math teacher Heik Hambarzumian, the reigning U.S. men's foil champion, has entered the international fencing Champion of Champions Tournament here.

A graduate of USF, Hambarzumian will be facing the top swordsmen of some 40 nations.

During 1974 the 24-year-old U.S. titlist has entered 16 tournaments and won 12, including the Pacific Coast championships in May and the Amateur Fencers League of America (AFLA) finals in July. In September, starting a new season, he took first in the Northern California Open.

Serra, Top Rankings

PHOENIX — San Mateo's Serra High School has been selected as the nation's number 18 prep football team and Richmond's JFK High placed 48th in a pre-season ranking of the nation's top 50 teams by National Prep Magazines.

The selections, made by the magazine's own staff and correspondents throughout the country, appears in the new October issue. It is the first such ranking of high school teams and includes a preview of the nation's top prep players, said Barry Sollenberger, editor.

Jim Freitas, 6'1" 185-pound Serra senior, was selected as one of the nation's top prep quarterbacks.

NPL Season Opens

Westmoor Upsets El Camino

By JERRY LITTRELL
Post Correspondent

It's been a long road back for the Westmoor High Rams, who apparently are about to turn around a season which started off as a complete disaster.

After losing key assistant coach Bob Lotti to Terra Nova, two starters, the first practice game 50-0, two more non-league contests and starting quarterback Harold Day just last week, one could expect head coach Pete Matisi to have been a mite downhearted.

But signs of resurgence were there the past two weeks. The Rams lost their second game by four points and their third by one, all the while starting to tackle more like the two-time defending NPL champions they were.

Friday afternoon, the month-long frustration ended as Westmoor pulled the first upset of the 1974 NPL season, beating title favorite El Camino 13-7.

In other NPL openers Terra Nova got its first win of the year, 20-7 over Serramonte; South San Francisco shut out Half Moon Bay 26-0 and Oceana squeaked by Jefferson 14-13.

Westmoor's Day sustained an ankle injury against San Mateo two weeks ago and didn't practice last week, but threw for 101 yards in his best performance to date.

A razzle-dazzle flanker reverse option from junior Terry Hartsfield to junior Ken DeAlba from the 13 got Westmoor ahead 7-0 in the second quarter.

Brad DeSoto's interception set up the Rams' final score, a six-yard run by Dan Tong with 42 seconds left in the first half.

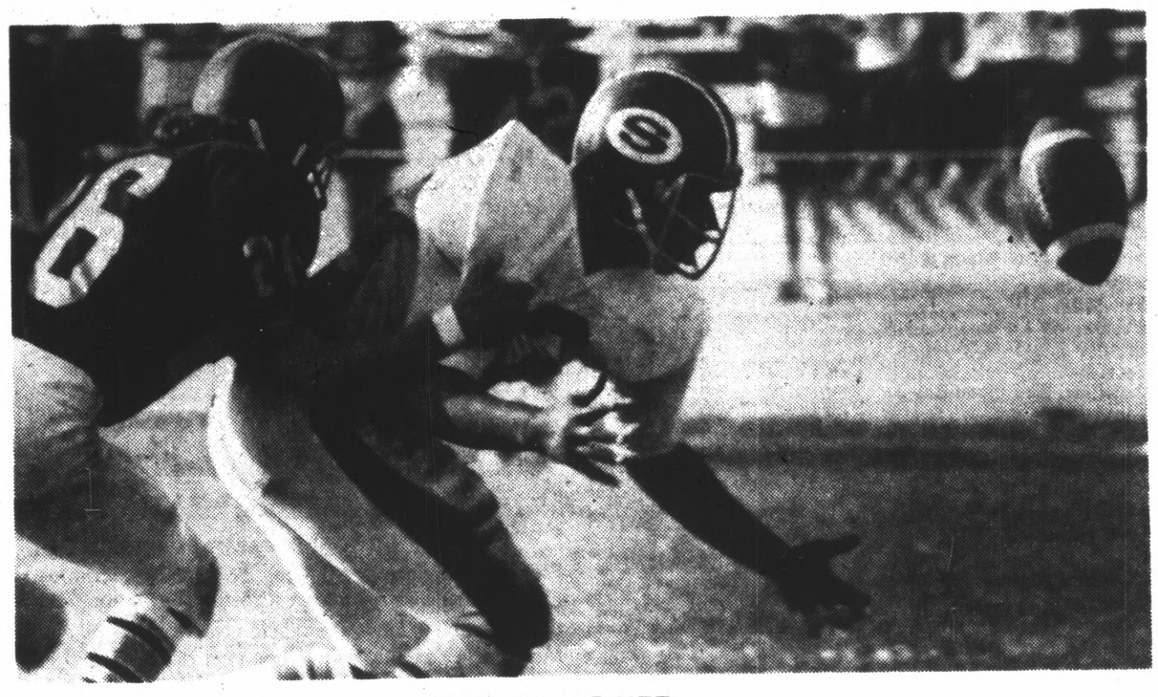
Were it not for a fumble by Day on his 17 with eight minutes left in the game, the Colts might not have scored. But four plays after the fumble halfback Mike Evans ran in from the four.

The Colts threatened in the last minute but Hartsfield batted down a desperation pass on the 15-yard-line to end Camino's comeback attempt.

TN 20, Serramonte 7

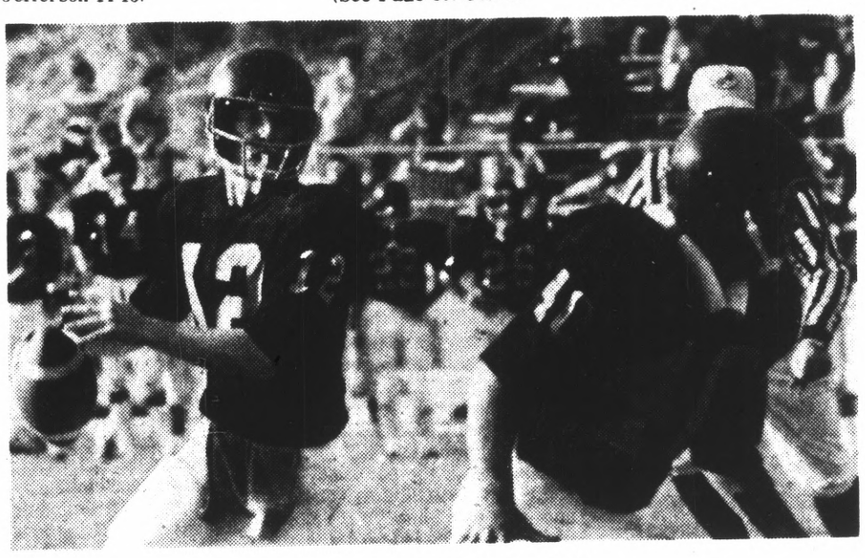
Terra Nova s Dawd Khan recovered one of six Regents fumbles on the fourth play of the game, setting up Tony Ballestrasse's one-yard TD run after Dave Matas had

(See Page 30. Col. 1)



SO NEAR AND YET . . .

A Serramonte High player came close to finding the handle on the ball, but Terra Nova defender Dan Martinez (26) stopped that. Terra Nova won 20-7 to join Westmoor, South San Francisco and Oceana at the top of the standings after the opening round of North Peninsula League play Friday.



RARE TIGER STRATEGY

Terra Nova quarterback Rich Stratfull (12) sets up to—gasp—pass. Tiger coach Bob Lotti doesn't like that four-letter word, but TN went to the air Friday to beat Serramonte 20-7. Providing protection is running back Tony Ballestrasse (40).

Skyline Wins Soccer Game

Dan Dadoun and Bob Merino scored two goals each to lead Skyline College to a 5-1 win over Hartnell College in a Coast Conference soccer game Thursday at Skyline.

The win ups Skyline's record to 2-0.

Alan Lofton scored the other goal for Skyline.

Tourney Set

The Women's Golf Association of Northern California will hold its annual Championship tournament, Oct. 14-18, at La Rinconada Country Club in Los Gatos.

Included in the lineup is Ms. Patty Snyder of Pajaro Valley, the defending champion.

carried eight straight times from the 30.

Neither team scored again till the fourth period. Matas hauled in a 14-yard scoring toss from quarterback Rich Stratfull, who later hit Andy Mendez from the 41 to make it 20-0.

Terra Nova didn't want to pass, but Serramone put nine or ten men up front, forcing the Tigers to throw 10 times, the last nine of which galled Lotti no end.

Jerome Williams got the lone Regent TD on a 58-yard pass from Matt Schettler.

S.S.F 26, Half Moon Bay 0

Warrior quarterback Frank Cesarz completed three of four passes for 175 yards Friday night.

Cesarz hit junior end Jim Selvitella on a 43-yard TD pass on his first completion, and his second was a 71-yard scoring pass to senior flanker Paul Bachtold. His third completion was a 61-yarder to Bachtold.

The Warrior defense, which held HMB to two yards in the first half, got its first shutout as the secondary held Cougar quarterback Scott Jones to seven short completions in 24 attempts.

The game was a study in frustration for senior SSF kick return specialist Jeff Yock, who had touchdown returns of 61 and 77 yards called back on infractions 20 yards behind the play.

Oceana 14, Jefferson 13

Halfback Calvin Ellison hauled in a screen pass from quarterback Lenny Sanchez and ran 64 yards for the winning touchdown with five minutes left in the game. Oceana had to struggle against the 18-man Jeff squad.

Jefferson halfback Bob Petrone was the game's Jefferson's leading ground gainer with 81 yards, including two touchdowns.

MEDAL WINNER AT 60

Frank McGuigan, 60, of Daly City, won the Masters national diving championship in August in Kansas City. It marked the second national title for the United Air Lines mechanic. He was the National AAU champion in 1945. McGuigan said he hadn't been on a low board in 15 years or the high board in 30 years, but signed up at Foothill College for a diving class and got in shape. Then he heard about the championships, entered, won two gold medals and then grabbed a gold cup at a Los Angeles meet two weeks later.

Bulldog Poloists in Big Win

College of San Mateo lost two out of three games in the NorCal Open water polo tournament Friday. But the Bulldogs may have won the most important contest.

After dropping the tourney opener to powerful southern visitor El Camino, 7-2, and a second round game, 7-3, to UC Davis JV, CSM fell behind 4-3 at halftime against host West Valley.

But then, according to Bulldog coach Rich Donner, "We finally put a good half together" and beat the Vikings, 11-5.

The win over West Valley was important because the Vikes are CSM's next Golden Gate Conference opponent — Friday at CSM — and probably the Bulldogs' toughest remaining league foe this month.

With the hoped-for return of high school All-America Jim Purcell next week after suffering a lacerated hand at the outset of the season, prospects are not as dim as the present 3-4 record might indicate.

Bulldogs Set Record

By FRED BAER
Post Correspondent

PLEASANT HILL — College of San Mateo has found a way of adding come-from-behind "excitement" to its football games despite the fact its defense hasn't been scored upon in three weeks.

In a replay of their conference-opening 17-2 victory over Foothill a week ago, the Bulldogs let host Diablo Valley hold onto a 2-0 lead Saturday night in Pleasant Hill before finally utilizing Steve La Plant's talented toe for a 3-2 edge and eventual 12-2 victory.

That set-up Saturday afternoon's showdown with visiting San Jose CC for the Golden Gate Conference leadership. The two teams are currently deadlocked at 2-0, while De Anza is 1-0 and the other six league members all have at least one loss.

CSM exhibited the greatest rushing defensive performance in GGC history Saturday night, holding the Vikings to minus 49 net yards on the ground — their leading rusher having a net of plus five yards (thanks to a two-yard gain on the final play of the game).

That obliterated the listed league rushing defense record of minus 29 yards — Foothill's limit against Contra Costa eight years ago.

San Mateo had eight quarterback sacks, three by soph lineman Greg Hansel, and dumped DVC runners for losses on 17 of their 46 total rushing attempts.

Diablo got inside San Mateo's 40 only once — that on a 62-yard pass play from Gary Graumann to All-GGC split end Ron Turner, which accounted for most of the Vikes' 96 net yards for the night. The big play came with 19 seconds left in the first half and put DVC on San Mateo's 16.

Another pass to Turner set the ball on the four, but Dan Howry picked off the next aerial attempt to end the threat.

Serra Padres Triumph

By STEVE JOHNSON
Post Correspondent

Serra High's football team will take on the West Catholic Athletic League with a lot of passes and more than a few prayers.

Quarterbck Jim Freitas will provide the passes, as he did Saturday to pace a 34-8 win over visiting McClymonds of Oakland and complete a 4-0 Padre practice slate.

Coach Jesse Freitas will provide the prayers and hope that an already tough injury situation doesn't get any tougher.

Serra missed seven regulars against McClymonds, incuding top linemen John Minihan (6-0, 213) and Matt Walter (6-2; 215).

Minihan (separated shoulder) will play in Saturday's WCAL opener against Riordan. Walter (bad ankle sprain) is doubtful.

Quarterback Freitas continued his season-long sharp passing, although McClymonds (0-3) put up what his coaching father termed "the best defense we've seen."

Freitas threw for 237 yard (19-29) and three touchdowns to offset a bottled-up running game. Tight end Rich Allen, wide receiver John Caselli and halfback Jim Meyersieck (a defensive back pressed into offensive duties because of the injuries) each grabbed a TD strike.

Freitas brought his seasonal passing figures to 62-102 for 898 yards and 13 scores, and is the main reason for Serra's 30.5 points-per-game average.

Caselli, who had seven catches Saturday for 90 yards, has 19 over-all receptions for 282 yards and six touchdowns. John O'Leary, who went 4-85 against McClymonds, is a combined 16-212.

Still the Vikings held a 2-0 halftime lead. After an offensive pass interference call against CSM, Al Smith fumbled a handoff — which rolled eight yards into the end zone. He fell on the ball and was tackled by George Raya for a safety.

Diablo fumbled the ball right back after the free kick, Andrew Brown recovering for the bulldogs on the enemy 39. But CSM couldn't capitalize and LaPlant's 35-yard field goal attempt was wide to the left.

That meant the game outcome was not to be decided until the fourth quarter. CSM marched 72 yards to the Diablo ten before LaPlant was called upon, on the first play of the last period, to split the uprights with a 27-yarder.

San Mateo went on to complete a 57-yard drive, sparked by Rudy Castellanos passes to Skip Streathern (17 yards) and to Kevin McCoy (28 yards), after which John Hart plunged a yard for the only TD of the game.

The ball came right back to the Bulldogs again as Turner fumbled to Ray Barrow after a pass reception. LaPlant's 37-yard goal clinched it with 45 seconds to play. But, somehow, Diablo managed a short kick return and eight scrimmage plays before time finally ran out.

CSM coach Steve Shafer wasn't overly concerned about his team's still inconsistent offense. "I'm not too concerned about the score, as long as we win," he noted. "An I have great respect for Diablo's defense."

San Mateo did gain 241 total yards and had the team's best rushing performance of the year, 80 yards by Greg Smith (in 27 carries).

Leading tackler in the game was soph linebacker Barry Hyde, with 16 tackles, ten unassisted (including a sack) while Paul Brandow had 13 tackles and Hensel 12.

Shafer was also pleased with frosh stinger Jeff Hansen from San Carlos, who had ten tackles and a sack and helped fill in the void created by vets Bill Popin and Rick Parham, who are resting injuries.

Greens for Decorations

By IVA NEWMAN

Certain evergreen shrubs and trees have excellent decorative qualities for indoor arrangements. The Japanese are masters at combining branches with a very few flowers at all to make charming arrangements.

When you plant and grow the right type of trees and shrubs handsome arrangements are an easy possibility 12 months of the year.

Among the members of the California Association of Nurserymen's top favorites is English laurel (Prunus laurocerasus). It's a handsome, broadleaf, evergreen shrub that will take a lot of punishment without giving a hint of being abused. It can be grown as an informal screen so there will be many branches for cutting, or it can be clipped into a formal hedge so there will be no branches to cut. It can also be grown as a tree in the garden or in a tub to ornament a terrace or patio. The dwarf form of this laurel gets only four to six feet high while the regular English laurel can grow to 30 feet tall with a width equal to its height. Watering and fertilizing will speed its growth and keep the top dense. However, it is a bit greedy so plant it away from where you wish to grow other flowers.

SARCOCOCCA

A shrub that we delight in using for flower arrangements, because it will last two to three weeks so that all one need do is replace the flowers is Sarcococca ruscifolia. We know of no common name for this shrub or its close relative, S. confusa, which is often confused for the former. The difference is that S. ruscifolia has red fruits while S. confuxa has black fruits. The sarcoccas are native to the Himalayas and China. They have never been damaged by frost in this area. The leaves are approximately one inch long, deep green and highly polished. They maintain a slow but orderly growth in either deep shade or where they get morning sun. They have fragrant, small, white flowers hidden in the foliage from January to March. The blossoms are quite fragrant making these plants excellent container plants for entryways. They like a soil rich in organic matter (we use half compost and half soil but any of the commercial soil amendments may be used). In the 17 years that we have grown these shrubs we have never needed to spray for any type of problem. Our plants are approximately six feet tall and four feet wide. We grew them on the east side of the house where they got morning sun for four to five hours for four years then moved them to the north side of the house, under some trees, where they get no sun at all. Two plants keep us well supplied with cutting branches.

SWEET OLIVE

Sweet Olive, Osmanthus fragrans, is another evergreen plant that gives us long-lasting cut branches that we enjoy using very much. Here again, we can keep an arrangement going for two to three weeks just by replacing the blooms. Our osmanthus grows about 10 feet tall. It would go taller if we allowed it to. We have it growing at the northeast corner of the house where it gets filtered morning sun. We keep it close to 10 feet as we don't want it to break the roof line. This shrub is supposed to be susceptible to scale but we have never been bothered with this pest. We did pinch out the growing tips of our plant when it was small to make it bushier but outside of water and fertilizer and an annual pruning and shaping it has needed no other care.

Another shrub we grow and enjoy tremendously is Michelia figo, formerly known as M. fuscata, or the banana shrub. Our plant has been in the garden 10 years. It is approximately 10 feet tall and six feet wide. It is planted where it gets sun from about 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. It is planted in sandy loam that is well enriched with compost, in a spot that is well drained. The Michelias are evergreen trees and shrubs that are related to the magnolias. Our plant has medium green leaves that are about three inches long and very glossy. It has one a half inch, creamy yellow flowers that have a strong, fruity fragrance that many people claim smells like ripe bananas. Its heavy bloom season is in March to May but we find that it will have a scattering of blooms all summer long. Here is another shrub that we have never had to spray and the only pruning that we do is the cutting of the branches for flower arrangements, for it, too, lasts for up to two weeks in water in the house.

Magnolias

When thinking of branches to cut for indoor decoration, no list would be complete withoutsome mention of both the evergreen and the deciduous magnolias. These shrubs and trees are a bit trickier to grow than the shrubs that we have mentioned above but theyare well worth the effort. The main varieties are Magnolia grandiflora and its hybrids, and the deciduous magnolias such as M. denudata (Yulan Magnolia), M. soulangiana (often called Tulip Trees) and M. liliflora (Lily-flowered magnolia.)

Most modern gardens are just not big enough to support M. grandiflora but its off spring M. G. St. Mary will fit into most any garden. It is a small tree that is a heavy producer of large flowers. It may also be a shrub (unless it is pruned to tree form.) It will also be too dense unless some of the branches are purned out and this is where flower arranging helps train a tree. When we cut branches of this tree for the house we frequently use a mixture of glycerin and water (equal parts) as this causes the foliage to become a beautiful brown while it stays supple. These branches can be used again and again as they stay beautiful a long time. We have never tried this treatment on deciduous magnolias.

Among the deciduous varieties, M. Yulan, being an early bloomer rates very high. The most popular deciduous variety is M. soulangiana which is often called the Tulip Tree. This is a hybrid so one should shop for named varieties and buy when they are in flower so as to be sure of what you are getting.

All magnolias resent being cut but we have found that we get no dieback if we take a tree seal to the garden with us and paint each cut as we make it.

SSF City Labor Units Ready for New Talks

Labor and management are jockeying for position at South San Francisco's City Hall, preparing for biennial labor negotiations.

City Manager Ed Alario has been trying to change the composition of some of the bargaining units.

Alario defended his $900 expenditure to induce a dozen fire captains to break away from Unit 6, composed of firemen and represented by the International Association of Fire Fighters, AFL-CIO.

He had two breakfast meetings with them at the Holiday Inn, and the city paid a reported $780 for overtime. He urged the fire captains to join Unit 1, composed of management.

Alario explained that the city cannot afford to pay the captains overtime for attending monthly fire department and other city meetings.

Last week, in secret ballot, the fire captains voted to stay with the union. Alario reluctantly told them that they will not be permitted to attend any more such meetings.

The fire captains said they prefer to remain close to their men.

Monday night, the city council voted to set up three new units — confidential, professional and para-professional. Who would belong to them was not disclosed, but Alario said the para-professional unit came in response to inquiries by the radio dispatchers. Since the dispatchers have been transferred from the police department to a new city division called communications, it was thought they no longer could belong to the police unit.

SSF City Councilmen Hike Hotel, Motel Tax

South San Francisco city councilmen Monday increased the city's hotel-motel tax from five to six per cent, affective Jan. 1.

"It will not affect any of our residents," Councilman Dick Battaglia declared, "unless they stay in one of our hotels."

The increase was recommended by City Manager Ed Alario, who said that of the 13 cities contracting with the county convention and visitors bureau, only six receive a hotel-motel tax revenue of over $45,000.

Of those six, four impose a six per cent tax, Alario said. South San Francisco and Burlingame do not.

Burlingame officials, Alario added, will recommend an increase to the council.

"There is no evidence that indicates a higher tax rate inhibits travel or persuades a traveler to seek an accommodation imposing a lower tax rate," Alario told the council.

He predicted that the increased tax should increase city revenue some $40,000-$50,000.

Councilman Frank Mammini urged a portion of the increase be set aside to promote the hotel industry. Alario said the city already pays $24,000 a year to the convention bureau.

The head of the bureau has been invited to visit South San Francisco to confer with local officials over future promotional activity.

Mammini said more should be done by South San Francisco to benefit its dozen hotels.

"We can pass a law to get another per cent of tax out of them," he declared. "It's meaningless if their rooms aren't filled."

Soils Report Debated

Like the fable of the shoe that was lost for lack of a nail, a San Bruno townhouse proposal may be lost for lack of an adequate soils report.

The key word is "adequate," which has a different definition for the developer than for the planning commissioners.

Developer Stanley A. Karatz, a San Francisco certified public accountant, wants the commissiones to certify the Environmental Impact Report (EIR) on the project before he spends money on an analysis that he says has been submitted and shows the soil to be stable.

The commissioners say no detailed soils analysis which they say is an essential ingredient to an EIR, and must be submitted before they will proceed, has been submitted.

Karatz wants to build 40 townhouses on an 8.6 acre irregularly shaped parcel north and east of Goodwin Drive, west of Longview Drive and south of College Drive.

Before Karatz may proceed the commissioners say he must meet the requirements of the Alquist-Priolo Geologic Hazard Zones Act, which became effective July 1.

Under the act, all developments for human occupancy within a preliminary special studies zone (which approximately two-thirds of this parcel is) shall require a detailed report as to the geological stability of the land.

Associate Planner Paul Moeller said Karatz has to submit a report "that would have to satisfy the state geologist." He said if Karatz were to get a letter from the state indicating that all the necessary geologic work had been done, the commissioners would begin reviewing the EIR.

Councilman Hits Vote

Frank Mammini blasted his fellow South San Francisco councilmen Monday after they voted, 3-1, to grant an appeal of a local builder whose proposed parking layout had been rejected by the Planning Commission.

Mammini said he had considered buying the property, but after checking with the building inspector, decided the lot was so narrow only three units could be built, if adequate parking was provided.

"I don't know how many other people were put in the same position, who did not bid for it," he said. "Here, a definite advantage was given to an individual who thought he could get away with it."

Only Warren Steinkamp voted against the project. Mammini abstained, while Mayor Terry Mirri, Richard Battaglia and Leo Padreddii voted to override the Planning Commission's rejection.

The appeal was by Patrick Brosnan, who wants to build a four-unit apartment house between 1033 and 1039 Grand Ave. Although the Planning Commission and the Architecturl Committee approved the building, it rejected the parking layout because—according to City Planner David C. Hale — they believed movement within the garage would be too confined and the substandard access to the parking spaces would create safety problems on Grand Avenue."

Failure of Dills Bill Pleases Districts

By JOHN HORGAN

Public school districts in San Mateo County this week breathed a momentary sigh of relief.

A controversial bill, SB 1592, was one of a number of bills vetoed by Gov. Ronald Reagan. The senate did not override the veto.

The bill would have provided about $25 million worth of new state money for the state's public schools.

However, from this county's standpoint, the bill was less than desirable.

Termed the Dills' bill for its author, Sen. Ralph Dills of San Pedro, it would have prohibited high wealth districts from seeking revenue increases after Jan. 1, 1975.

This county is brimming with affluent districts, many of whom are finding themselves in a fiscal bind even though they are wealthy.

Six districts are going to the public in the Nov. 5 election in an attempt to raise their per-student expenditures in 1975-76.

Had the Dills bill been approved by the governor, it would have meant that Noc. 5 would have been the last chance for these districts to go to the public for help.

Now, chances seem fairly good that, if the ballot measures in some districts are not passed by the electorate Nov. 5, those districts can still return to the voters in 1975 for another try.

This is an important issue here in this county because many districts are feeling a serious financial pinch due to a combination of restrictive state laws, declining enrollments and rampant inflation.

Since increases in local property values don't benefit district coffers any more, the districts must depend on state formulas to increase their revenues.

In the last year or so, inflation alone has stripped many districts of their ability to even keep up with costs, let along consider adding new programs, staff, etc.

High wealth districts in this county are among a small minority (estimated at about 5 per cent) of districts in California who would have been hurt by the Dills' bill.

Most districts would have been aided by it.

Most officials in the public education establishment are gravely upset by Reagan's action and by the fact that the senate did not override his veto.

"It is unconscionable that a minority in the senate, which passed the bill originally with 27 votes after exhaustive consideration, should toss away all that effort and let one man's questionable judgment prevail," complained Jack Rees, the executive director of the California Teachers Association.

Proposition Didn't Impress Anybody

Dwain E. People's unique baggage handling project at San Francisco International Airport ran afoul of the law Saturday.

Deputy Sheriff Les Caldwell spotted Peoples, 19, of San Francisco, lugging a big duffel bag between the Central and South terminals about 1:10 p.m., accompanied by a naval airman.

Because there have been recent incidents of persons soliciting the carrying of baggage without a permit, Caldwell stopped to question the two.

The airman, Myron W Wright, 19, told the deputy that Peoples had picked up the bag and started carrying it. When he asked Peoples what he charged, Wright said the man told him to pick a number between one and six.

If he picked the "right" number, Wright said he was told, there would be no charge. Otherwise the charge would be $15.

The two were in the process of discussing theis proposal when Caldwell interceded. Peoples was arrested on a charge of illegal soliciting and booked at county jail.

703—Real Estate Wanted

THE General Services Administration requests proposals to the United States of America for a site for a motor pool facility serving Federal employees using San Francisco International Airport. A site of approximately two acres, located within a four mile radius of the Airport terminal, is required. The site must offer good access to the Airport and to Freeway on- and off-ramps. Preference will be given to sites affording convenient transportation to and from the Airport terminal. All utilities must be available on, or readily accessible to, the site. Owners may submit their own proposals. Proposals submitted by agents must be accompanied by documentary evidence of their authority to make such proposals. Owners or agents desiring to offer sites for consideration should submit site data prior to October 16, 1974 to Mr. Bill Snyder, Space Management Division, General Services Administration, 525 Market Street, Mail Station 30, San Francisco, CA 94105, telephone (415) 556-0900. All listings must clearly identify the location of the property. A plot plan, drawn to scale and showing existing improvements and utility locations must be included also. Sites offered will be inspected October 17 - October 22, 1974, by representatives of the General Services Administration. This advertisement is not a basis for negotiation, and the right is hereby reserved, as the interest of the Federal Government may require, to reject any or all offers and give consideration to sites other than those offered in response to this advertisement.

WE pay all cash for your property regardless of condition or location. Call for confidential market evaluation today. Mr. Renner, Realtor 342-8194.
